Annual PASA Conference Attracts 1,000

GAIL STROCK
Mifflin Co. Correspondent

STATE COLLEGE (Centre Co.)The Pennsylvania Association for Sustainable Agriculture (PASA) held its ninth annual Farming for the Future Conference February 4 and 5 at the Penn Stater Hotel and Conference Center in State College.

The purpose of the conference is to educate, enlighten, and examine the revolutionary changes occurring in the food system worldwide while providing alternatives to creating a sustainable food system.

The event drew nearly 1,000 participants and featured internationally renown speakers such as Dr. Vandana Shiva, director of the Research Foundation for Science, Technology, and Ecology, New Delhi, India, and Dr. John Todd, president and founder of Ocean Arks International, Burlington, Vermont.

We pulled out all the stops to get our keynote speakers, explains Tim Bowser, program coordinator for the PASA Conference. And we tried to cover all kinds of topics for our workshops the farm crisis, prices, world trade, GMOs, and more.

Shiva is a world renown advocate for farmers, the environment, women, and freedom. She figured prominently in the World Trade Organization talks in Seattle, giving ten lectures, workshops, and testimonies about World Trade Organization implications. In India she organizes sustainable farmer training cooperatives, oversees the creation of a seed banking network, and fights corporate acquisition of agricultural water rights. Shivas Research Foundation conducts independent research on ecological and social issues. She founded Navdanya, a national movement to protect the diversity and integrity of living resources, especially native seeds. Dr. Shivas awards

Roman Stoltzfoos, right, received the Sustainable Ag Leadership award at the PASA Conference. Making the presentation is Tim Bowser, PASA executive secretary.

The Snyders work together to closely monitor their dairy herd in Union County. Keeping a busy schedule with Joseph Sr. working off the farm, the Snyders maintain a somatic cell count of around 63,000 on their 63-cow dairy. Their excellent management practices have earned them numerous awards, including the National Dairy Quality Award. State Budget Includes Increases For Animal Disease Prevention And Ag Promotion

JAYNE SEBRIGHT
Lancaster Farming Staff

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — Last Tuesday Governor Tom Ridge proposed a $19.7 billion general fund budget, which included the biggest tax cut ever, along with increased investments in education and technology.

In the agricultural arena, the budget includes support for farmland preservation, animal health-related issues, and agricultural research. An increase of $179,000 is devoted to promote agricultural products both at home and around the world.

"Governor Ridge has recommended another great budget for Pennsylvania agriculture," said Secretary Samuel Hayes, Jr.

In his budget, Ridge included a commitment of $20 million a year to the Farmland Preservation Program. The $20 million is part of $135 million devoted to implement the second year of Pennsylvania's "Growing Greener" environmental effort to help communities better control land use.

The $20 million will be utilized by Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture (PDA) to preserve about 82 farms or 10,000 acres of farmland.

In addition to the $20 million is about $25 million that will come from cigarette-tax revenue and other sources to enable the state to preserve 12,000 additional acres. That's 22,000 acres in total.

The other $105 million in the "Growing Greener" fund will be divided three ways. $50.5 million will go to the Department of Environmental Protection for watershed protection and restoration projects. $32.5 million will go to the Department of Conservation and Natural Resources to make repairs and provide grants to communities. 32 million will go to the Pa. Infrastructure Investment Authority (PENNVEST) for water and sewer projects.

"During last summer's agricultural committee hearings, we heard a clear message of the desire for Farmland Preservation to continue and even be expanded," said Representative Raymond Bunt, Jr., chairman of the agricultural and rural affairs committee for the House of Representatives. "Through the Growing Greener initiative, this budget provides for that."

Hayes also noted that in addition to the "Growing Greener" budget, an additional $190,000

Six Master Farmers Named

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.)-Early next month, the Mid-Atlantic Master Farmer Award will be bestowed on six farmers from three states at the 66th annual Master Farmer awards luncheon. The awards will be given March 6, at the Harrisburg Marriott.

Past Master Farmers and ag leaders from across Pennsylvania, Delaware, Maryland, New Jersey and West Virginia will honor this year's recipients.

They are: Susan M. Blew of Pittstown, N.J.; Duane and June Hertzler of Loysville; Robert H. Jackson of Brownsville; Lewis R. Riley of Parsonsburg, Md.; and James Witter of Shippensburg. The six Master Farm-

CATTLE: Compared to Tuesday's lower market, slaughter steer prices were steady. Some mild strength was noted early on the quality cattle, but it was solely based on the short supply. Many cattle were discounted for carrying excess mud. A good run of Holstein steers sold steady. Slaughter heifers sold firm as steer buyers turned to the females trying fill orders. Slaughter cow prices were .50 to mostly 1.00 lower and slaughter bulls sold steady. Supply included 36 percent slaughter steers and 47 percent slaughter cows.

SLAUGHTER STEERS:High Choice and Prime 2-4 1165-1480 lbs 68.50-71.85, ind. 1290 lbs 73.50. Choice 2-3 1115-1445 lbs 67.00-69.50, few high dressing 1-2 up to 70.75; 1495-1580 lbs 63.50-65.85. NY Phil Frozen Eggs

ATLANTA, GA.

EASTERN REGION FROZEN EGGS, FEBRUARY 11, 2000. FEDERAL-STATE

Mostly prices were generally higher on limited trading. Traders were cautious as interest slowed in late week trading. Supplies were irregular. The undertone was steady to firm on whole and whites, and about steady on yolks. Liquid and frozen eggs (ingredients included) processed under federal inspection in the Eastern region for the week ending February 05, 2000 were 14 % more than last week, and 7 % more than a year ago. Shell egg supplies were irregular but about adequate for trade needs.

National Egg Market

ATLANTA, GA
FEBRUARY 16, 2000

NATIONAL EGG MARKET - AT A GLANCE

Prices ranged from unchanged to mostly sharply lower in the major terminal markets. However, in the New England area jumbos and small eggs were unchanged. The market tone was mostly weak at current values. Demand remained mixed and usually in a full range, with best interest on limited feature activity. Supplies of all sizes were reported as adequate to fully adequate with mediums sometimes noted as increasing in availability. Breaking stock supplies were adequate from regular sources, however, demand was unaggressive as traders watch further market developments. Light type fowl were sufficient for current processing schedules.

NE Chicken Parts 1&2

ATLANTA, GA.

NORTHEAST BROILER/FRYER PARTS - PART I FEDERAL-STATE

Trucklot buying interest was generally light. Offerings of bone-in breasts were close to adequate. Wings remained ample. The balance was at least adequate. Movement into retail and distributive outlets was mostly slow but occasionally better where features were in progress. The market tone was fully steady on bone-in breasts, weak on wings and steady at best on the balance.

PRICES PAID PER POUND, ICE PACKED AND CO2 PACKED BROILER/FRYER PARTS, DELIVERED TO FIRST RECEIVERS IN POOL TRUCKLOT AND TRUCKLOT QUANTITIES.

Delmarva Broiler

ATLANTA, GA.

DELMARVA BROILER/FRYER MARKET. FEDERAL-STATE

Movement of ready-to-cook whole birds was light to moderate, and typical for mid-week trading activity. Seller offerings varied from plant to plant, but were generally fully sufficient for trade needs. Live supplies were mostly moderate; weight were desirable to heavy. Processing schedules were moderately heavy. Less than trucklot asking prices were unchanged at 45 to 57 cents Trade sentiment was about steady. In the parts complex, inquiry for bone-in breast was active. Boneless skinless breast was adequate. Leg quarters were fully adequate. Wings were in excess.

National Grain Market

St. Joseph, MO
Wed Feb 16, 2000
USDA-MO Dept Ag Market News
Daily National Grain Market Summary

Wheat bids finished mostly lower at the close. Forecasts calling for some moisture over the next couple of days, weighed on bids but export optimism limited losses. Corn bids were slightly higher on reports of possible export tenders. Slightly lower bean bids were due to reduced crush figures and continued slow export demand. Wheat mostly 1 cent lower except for Portland, 1 cent higher. Corn 1 cent higher. Sorghum 3 to 5 cents higher. Soybeans 1 to 2 cents lower. Snow is forecast in the hard red winter wheat growing areas over the next couple of days, pushing wheat bids slightly lower. Any moisture is desperately needed at this time. Additional weakness was due to reports that Tunisia bought EU wheat this morning. However, several tenders are on the books for this week. Some strength was noted in corn pits today, on reports that Korea is re-tendering for 4 million bushels of US corn. Also, a US Grains Council straw poll showed producers cutting back 1/2 million on corn acreage and switching to soybeans and milo. Farmer selling continued slow for corn and beans due to the low prices. The recent Russian PL-480 corn purchase on February 7, 2000 was reported to be canceled with no reason given. Soybean bids turned lower after two days of higher trends. Indications that China bought 4 million bushels of beans and talks of Taiwan purchasing 2 million bushels of optional origin beans tomorrow, underpinned bids. Gains were limited, however, by the monthly crush report which showed 2 million bushels fewer beans were crushed in January than the trade expected.

The OLD FARMER'S THIS WEEK WITH ALMANAC

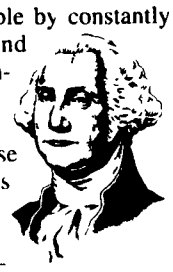
PRESIDENTS DAY, FEB. 21.

FIRST PRESIDENT'S WISHES

In 1789, when President George Washington (1732-1799) issued a proclamation calling for a national day of thanksgiving, he also asked that "the great Lord and Ruler of Nations" might "enable us all, whether in public or private stations to render our National Government a blessing to all the people by constantly being a Government of wise, just, and constitutional laws, discreetly and faithfully executed and obeyed to promote the knowledge and practice of true religion and virtue, and the increase of science among them and us " As election days come upon us later this year, these might be fine standards by which to compare the various contenders How have we fared over time?



History is philosophy teaching by example.

TIP OF THE WEEK

☞ Bleach a wooden rolling pin with an occasional rubbing of fresh lemon.

RICOTTA PIE

1-1/2 pounds ricotta cheese
1/2 cup toasted almonds, ground fine
1/2 cup confectioners' sugar
grated rind of 1 lemon
1 teaspoon vanilla extract
4 eggs
a 9-inch pastry crust

Combine ricotta, ground almonds, sugar, and lemon rind in a blender, and pulse to just mix Add vanilla, then eggs, one at a time, pulsing briefly after each addition. Pour mixture into pastry Cut tin foil to just cover filling, and place over pie. Bake for 5 minutes at 425° F, then another 30 minutes at 325° F Pull foil off for last 5 minutes and cook until center is firm Cool before cutting

Makes 8 servings.

The OLD FARMER'S WEATHER PROVERBS

The night of St. Peter's (Feb. 22) will show the weather for the next 40 days.

In Sweden, the nights of February 20-27 are called "steel nights" because of their cutting severity.

If it freezes on St. Matthew's (Feb. 25), it will freeze for a month together.

Randy, Dennis, Brian and Scott Prissel, Prissel Valley Farms, Durand, Wisconsin

Prissels chose a "True Tax" lease. In fact, they leased a milking parlor, free stall barns, silos and other farm equipment. Along with fixed and 100% tax deductible lease payments, the leases protected their equity ratios by providing off balance sheet financing.

They chose Telmark for its knowledge of the dairy industry, service and reputation for financing. They also enjoyed working with their Telmark representative who personally knows the ups and downs of farming.

Telmark's Scott Vosters with Brian Prissel

By financing with a lease, terms were kept to a minimum, allowing for the continued growth of the operation. Telmark's quick response allowed the Prissels to move quickly into their dairy expansion.

OPINION

Fear Becomes Fact

Now that we have reduced the risk of environmental contamination from pesticides in our cornfields with biotechnology, you would think all would be well on the farm front. Not so. Now farmers are getting a new set of federal governmental regulations because genetically modified corn killed monarch butterfly caterpillars in a lab experiment.

Known as Bt corn, it carries a gene from a bacterium, which produces a toxin that kills pests that eat the corn plants. Because of public fear, farmers are now to plant traditional corn around the edges of Bt cornfields and plant 20 percent of their corn as non-Bt corn.

We know of one farmer who had an extreme problem with corn stalk borer until he started to use Bt corn. Now he will need to go back to his old problem. In addition, the seed companies in the last several years have put forth their best effort for increased yields into the Bt varieties. Farmers have seen better resistance to high winds and a yield of eight to 10 bushels per acre more than traditional corn.

But a perceived fact, even one that is generated by fear, becomes a fact that must be recognized. The fact: farmers will now need to go back to non-Bt corn varieties for at least part of their crop.

To Look At Land Rent

When renting land, the income potential of the land is a critical consideration when determining rental rate. To determine this the renter needs to know the production capability of the land, the value of the product at market time and the cost to produce the crop. For example, the soil will produce 165 bushels of corn, 51 bushels of soybeans and 4 tons of alfalfa hay per year in a 3 year crop rotation.

The value of corn is $2.35 per bushel, soybeans is $5.75 per bushel and alfalfa hay is $110 per ton. The gross income is $387.50 (165 x $2 35) for corn, $293.25 for soybeans and $440 for alfalfa hay for an average income of $373.59 per acre. With production costs of $230.13 per acre for corn, $145.85 per acre for soybeans and $276.88 per acre for alfalfa hay or an average cost of $217.65. This leaves an average net income per acre of $155.94. The farmer then needs to deduct the value of his time and management and the balance is the maximum amount that may be paid for land rent. A poultry, dairy or livestock operation may be willing to subsidize the land rental rate from the animal enterprise in order to have the necessary land for proper manure utilization.

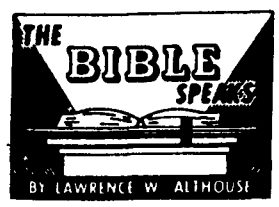
To Practice Child Safety

Thousands of children are injured and hundreds killed each year by hazards found on the farm. Some of these children were working on the farm, while others wander into trouble on their own. Implement injury prevention strategies to protect agriculture's greatest resource - the children. Design a fenced safe play area near the house away from work activities. Do not allow children to roam freely on the farm. Inspect your farm regularly for hazards that can injure children. Equip all barns, farm shop, chemical storage area, livestock pens, etc. with latches that can be locked or secured so children cannot enter. Children who are physically able to perform farm work should be only assigned age appropriate tasks that they are fully trained to do. They should only perform these tasks under close adult supervision. Do not expose children to hazards. Never carry them on tractors and equipment or invite them into the farm shop, livestock barn, grain bins, etc.

Feather Prof.'s Footnote: "Without change there can be no breakthroughs. Without breakthroughs there can be no future."



ESCAPING THE CROSS
February 20, 2000
Background Scripture:
Matthew 27:32-61.
Devotional Reading:
John 19:16-30.

Mean-spirited though it was, the challenge the spectators hurled at Jesus on the cross would seem to be a valid one: "You who would destroy the temple and build it in three days, save yourself! If you are the Son of God, come down from the cross!" (Mt. 25:40). They did not expect that Jesus would be able to meet this challenge, for the Son of God does not belong on a cross. Therefore, a person hanging on a cross cannot be the Son of God, for he would have the power to call down from heaven legions of angels to overcome the military might of even Rome.

As they saw it, these agonizing hours on the cross completely nullified any legitimate claims he might have made. His helplessness at the hands of the secular rulers meant that he never had the power that had been ascribed to him. "He saved others; he cannot save himself; he is the King of Israel; let him come down now from the cross, and we will believe in him" (25:42). This is a taunt, not an offer; they are not offering to follow him if he can descend from the cross. They believe he cannot "save himself" and therefore that he never really "saved others." It was a trick, an illusion–virtually what we would say if Jesus came working his miracles in our midst today.

Was God Not Able?

So, if not to free himself of this terrible ordeal, why, if Jesus was the Messiah, the Son of God, did he not save himself in order to prove to these scoffers that he was God's appointed Son? What a demonstration of the power of God and the validity of Jesus of Nazareth if God had delivered him from the cross. Did Jesus not want to be saved from this terrible death? Was God not able to save him?

Actually, the gospels lead us to believe that there was nothing inevitable about the cross. He had numerous alternatives to Golgotha. He could have avoided coming to Jerusalem. What was there in his mission that determined that he had to go there? Wouldn't it have been better to build up support in Galilee before risking a clash in Jerusalem? Having come there, he also could have left when the conflict with the authorities began to heat up. Or he could have answered their probing questions a little more judiciously than he did.

If he had to be in Jerusalem, why not keep a lower profile? Did he have to make that Palm Sunday procession and drive the moneychangers out of the temple (they were probably back at their old places a few days later). If he knew that Judas's loyalty was suspect, shouldn't he have avoided the Garden of Gethsemane? Even at the last moment, why didn't he answer Pilate in a way which might have persuaded the Roman governor to find him innocent and release him? Actually, he had an opportunity to do so because the charges against him could have been demonstrated to be false, at the most the product of misunderstanding.

Who Drove The Nails?

These and similar questions lead some people to conclude that Jesus and the Father wanted the cross in order to fulfill prophecy and a grand plan of salvation. I submit to you, however, that the cross was attributable solely to human sin, not the will of God. Those were men who nailed Jesus to the cross, not angels.

You see, the question was never whether God was able to save Jesus from the cross, but did these people have the free will to perpetrate this terrible crime? And, if they did have that free will, would God's purpose be better served by saving him from death by crucifixion or by letting men do their worst and giving God the opportunity to show once and for all that the best of God is more powerful than the worst of men?

Jesus was actually confronted with two choices: remaining faithful to his mission and accepting a cross if it mean that, or seizing the opportunity to escape the cross and failing the Father. Jesus chose not to fail the Father and so he accepted the cross. So, Jesus does not expect that we will seek crosses, but that neither will we shirk them when the purpose of God is at stake.

PENNSYLVANIA MASTER CORN GROWERS ASSOC., INC.

Corn Talk, Lancaster Farming, Saturday, January 29, 2000

A dry year translated into an early harvest for Ansel Webster. All the corn was taken off the first week of October with average yield of 177.3 tons per acre (dry basis). He credits "Mother Nature and the Lord" for his achieving high corn yields in a drought year. Photo by Carolyn Moyer

CAROLYN N. MOYER
Tioga Co. Correspondent

TIOGA (Tioga Co.) — "I've never reached 1,000 tons before," said Ansel Webster He credits "Mother Nature and the Lord" for his achieving high corn yields in a year when many farmers watched their crop wither away in the drought of 1999

His average yield was 5 49 tons per acre On a dry matter basis, that translates to 177 3 dry shell bushels per acre.

This year on the whole 185 acres, "I had 1,015 17 tons of high moisture corn," said Webster "I was top dog last year for the county I don't know where I am this year"

The highest yield he usually has is around four tons per acre

"We must have had some really heavy dews along that river and enough rain when we needed it," said Webster, who plants a 95-day corn on his sandy loam soil

"We can get by with 100-day corn, but if you go over that, you're really pushing it as far as high moisture shell corn Of course for silage, you don't have to worry about it as much That can vary quite a bit"

Because of the dry weather, corn dry down was faster than usual

"We started combining the first part of October, which is really two weeks earlier than we generally do, so this year has been an exceptional year We were all done this year by the time we generally start," said Webster

Webster's corn is custom combined, placed right on trucks and moved to the farm which has purchased it All of Webster's corn is harvested for

- Butter Market Weakens
- CME block butter down to $0.88/lb.
- Block and barrel cheese prices steady
- December product production is up
- USDA to release uniform prices next week

There is not much news to report this week. Barrel and block cheese prices at the Chicago Mercantile Exchange are frozen at $1.08 and $1.11 per pound, respectively. Cheese demand is reported to be "fair" and production seasonally heavy. Most cheese buyers are holding off on purchases until the spring flush. Both grades of nonfat dry milk are also frozen at $1.03 per pound Cheese and nonfat dry milk prices are effectively stuck at near-support levels.

Grade AA butter prices at the Chicago Mercantile Exchange fell from $0.93 per pound on Monday, February 7 to $0.88 per pound by Friday, February 11.

USDA reports that butter stocks are "considerably heavier than last year at this time." Churning schedules are active at most butter plants. Fresh butter is apparently readily available.

USDA reported dairy product production for December 1999. Butter production was 107.8 million pounds, up 1.4 percent from a year ago and 19.3 percent above November 1999. American-type cheese production in December was 307.3 million pounds, up 2.4 percent from a year ago and up 7.0 percent from November 1999. Total cheese production in December was 698.2 million pounds, up 4.4 percent from a year ago and up 2.7 percent from November 1999.

On Monday, most federal milk marketing orders will announce uniform milk prices. These prices represent the average pool value and are computed by averaging the class prices times the percent utilization for each class.

The uniform prices will be announced at zone zero. For example, in federal order number 1 (Northeast), the uniform price will be announced for Boston.

A producer price differential (PPD) will also be computed for each order.

The PPD is approximately equal to the uniform price less the Class III price. The PPD is then adjusted back to each plant in the order system. This PPD adjustment is equal to the difference between the Class I differential at the plant and at the base zone. The farm price is approximately equal to the PPD plus the Class III value of milk.

For more information on market and federal order data, see my Penn State Dairy Outlook website http://www.aers.psu.edu/dairyoutlook/.

include the Global 500 Roll of Honour in 1992; Earth Day International Award in 1993; Alternative Nobel Prize in 1993; VIDA SANA International Award in 1993; the Golden Plant Award for Ecology in 1997; and the Alfonso Comin Award in 1997.

Dr. John Todd presented the closing keynote address. Dr. Todd co-founded the New Alchemy Institute, which investigates new applications of solar energy and new food producing systems based on renewable sources of energy. Dr. Todd is currently a research professor and distinguished lecturer at the University of Vermont. He teaches ecological design. Dr. Todd was recognized in 1987 by the UN Environmental Program for his contributions in protecting the earths environment. He received the Chico Mendes Environmental Merit Award in 1989 from the US Environmental Protection agency. He received the Teddy Roosevelt Conservation Award in 1990, Discovery Magazines Technological Award in 1991, the Charles A. and Anne Morrow Lindbergh Award in 1998, and the Bioneers Life Time Achievement Award in 1998.

The conference began with an 8:00 a.m. registration on Friday followed by the opening session and keynote address by Shiva at 9:30.

Participants then attended concurrent sessions on topics such as Profitability on a Small Farm, Energize Your Pasture Grass, Compost Rules!, Preventing resistance Problems from Genetically Modified Crops, the Four Ps of Pastured Poultry, Improving the Soil Foodweb and Plant Production, and Introduction to Federal Estate and Gift Tax for the Farm Family.

Over forty farmers, processors, and distributors donated food for the event. Lauren Smith of PASA worked closely with Chef Ken Stout of the Penn Stater Hotel to design special menus for all the meals during the conference.

At the PASA Conference, J.J. Haapala, director of The Farmer Cooperative based in Junction City with the Genome Project, exchanges seeds with Penn State Horticulture Professor, Pete Ferretti, while Gene Chenoweth looks on.

Dr. Vandana Shivas, New Delhi, India, delivered the keynote address.

To Host PC DART Workshops

LANCASTER (Lancaster Co.)–Lancaster DHIA will host two workshops for dairymen who are using PC DART for Herd Management. Currently over 2200 Dairymen nationwide are using PC DART on the farm.

Oklahoma City Feeder Cattle

Oklahoma City, OK
Wed Feb 16, 2000

USDA-OK Dept Ag Market News
Oklahoma National Stockyards - Weekly Cattle Summary

Compared to last week: Feeder steers and heifers 2.00-4.00 lower with moderate demand. Stocker cattle and calves steady with very good demand. Feeder cattle are moving off wheat early due to dry conditions and profitability. Despite this cattle continued to reach their maximum weights and much of supply were feeders weighing over 700 lbs in fleshier than normal conditions for this time of year. This combined with a lackluster movement of slaughter cattle and declining cattle futures has dampened demand and price of feeders. Quality average to attractive. Feeders in medium to fleshy conditions off wheat; calves in thin to moderate flesh. Weigh-ups gaunt to average. Slaughter cows and bulls 1.00 lower. Packer demand moderate. Demand good for replacement and stock cows. Total of 375 cows and bulls sold with 35 percent to packers. Receipts this week 13,400; last week 11,151; last year 12,125. Supply consisted of 80 percent yearlings over 600 lbs; 17 percent calves under 600 lbs; 3 percent cows and bulls. Heifers comprised 33 percent of feeder and calf supply. Prices follow with weighted average weight and price in parenthesis.

New Technology Highlighted At Lancaster Dairy Days

JAYNE SEBRIGHT
Lancaster Farming Staff

(Lancaster Co.) — Infrared technology and robotic milkers were two of the topics discussed during the first session of Lancaster County Dairy Days, held this Tuesday at the Lancaster County Farm & Home Center.

250 people attended the six-hour meeting, and 23 companies exhibited during the day. The meeting focused on new technology and management practices that can help farmers survive and thrive in the 21st century.

Tuesday's speakers included Leon Russler, Lancaster County Extension Agent; Brad Hilty, owner and chief consultant of PLS Agri-Management Associates; Dr. Ken Bailey, Penn State University dairy marketing specialist; and Brian Reed, DVM, Agricultural Veterinary Associates.

Lancaster County Dairy Extension Agent Glen Shirk led the meeting and showed two videos from the Dairy Stakeholders Association before the morning and afternoon sessions began. The two videos included Milk: It Does The Economy Good and Harnessing The Forces.

This article focuses on both Russler's and Reed's presentation, while additional articles will review discussions led by Hilty and Bailey.

In 1999, facing the worst drought in years, many farmers were forced to drill new wells. The first step in drilling a new well is finding the well, which can be difficult. Russler reviewed infrared photography and its capabilities to detect water sources in fields.

The infrared photograph can either be taken by a satellite or an aircraft. Russler recommended taking the picture from an aircraft because you can get a better picture of a smaller area.

Russler showed several pictures of farms taken with infrared technology this summer. The areas that appeared red on the photo identified where the plant cover was the greenest. Breaks in the red indicated areas where the bedrock neared the surface.

"The redder circles in the field wouldn't be a good place to build a foundation for your new barn," said Russler. That's because the red circles point to potential future sinkholes.

"If you live in Lancaster County, you can go to the GIS department and ask them to take the photo images," said Russler. "If you're drilling a well, the infrared photograph is a good thing to start with."

The Geographic Information System (GIS) office will provide an infrared photograph of any farm in Lancaster County for free.

Reed introduced robotic milkers to the group. Robotic milkers have already been operating successfully for four to five years in Europe.

"Today I just want to expose farmers to the idea of a robotic milker," said Reed. "They're not for everyone, but they can and do work."

According to Reed, more than 400 units were in operation in Europe as of six months ago. The first one in Canada was installed in March of 1999.

In the United States, the units are ready to go and waiting for approval from the Food & Drug Administration (FDA). Reed expects the first two models will begin operation in 2000. Those units include the Universal Prolion (also referred to as the AMS and the Miros) and the Lely Astronaut.

"Because of the service requirements, the companies will install pockets of robotic milkers so they don't have to travel miles and miles to service one milker," said Reed. Pennsylvania and Wisconsin are the two areas where the robotic milkers are first expected to appear.

The keys to making robotic milkers work on a dairy operation include the following: housing and feeding design must allow access to robot, automatic ID system is crucial, an advanced monitoring and computer system is necessary, and the farmer's management requirements must increase.

"The robotic milkers work best in smaller herds of between 60 and 120 cows," said Reed. "They'll work best in situation where the farm needs a new milking system anyway. They will work the worst in farms where the parlor efficiency is best, milking three times a day is already occurring, and the current facilities are adequate."

The basic concept of the robotic milker is that the cow can choose when she wants to be milked and enters into the stall when she feels her udder is getting full.

When the cow first approaches the stall, she is recognized by the computer system. The system determines her eligibility to be milked. If a cow was just milked a couple of hours ago, the system will not allow her into the stall.

If she is eligible to be milked, the cow enters the stall and is generally fed in the stall. The machine preps the cow and then attaches the teat cups to the udder using laser-sensing devices.

During the milking, milk flow is monitored and recorded and electrical current of the milk is recorded. Mastitis would cause a different milk flow and current to occur, alerting the system to the problem.

The milk can be discarded if necessary and the teat cups are removed based on milk flow. Teats can be sprayed with teat dip if necessary. The cow is released, and the system is ready for the next cow. All robotic milking systems currently come with a pager system to alert the farmer when the system malfunctions.

The different robotic systems vary in the following ways: cow capacity, prep procedure, teat cup removal (either individual or all four at once), milk dumping capabilities, and space requirements.

Reed showed the group videos of three separate robotic milking systems, including the Lely Astronaut, Prolion, and Westfalia Leonardo.

When a farmer installs a robotic milking system, he must make the following considerations. Cows must have free access to the robotic milker. The farmer must bring heifers into the system to teach them how to use it. The access to the feed alley should be through the system. There should be enough bunk space per cow.

The bedding source must be compatible with the type of robotic milker. One of the systems preps the cows' teats inside the teat cup. If a farmer uses sand bedding, the sand can cause abrasions to the teat by being forced around inside the teat cup.

There are also milk quality issues with the robotic milking systems, although most of these issues have been worked out in Europe. Cases of contagious mastitis outbreaks have occurred in systems where proper flushing between cows did not occur. Although somatic cell counts did not increase with the robotic milkers, higher bacteria counts can occur depending on the frequency of cleaning, the milk cooling process, and the length of the milk lines.

"Regulators will be watching the systems closely to keep these issues from arising," said Reed.

The cost of the two milking systems Reed expects to be introduced in the United States ranges from $150,000 to $340,000. The Lely Astronaut is a one-unit system that has a capacity of 65 cows and costs $150,000. The Universal Prolion is a four-stall system capable of handing up to 150 cows. The first box and robotic milker cost $175,000, while the other three stalls cost $55,000 a piece.

"You want to make sure you have the appropriate number of cows to maximize the system," said Reed. "While 65 cows in the Universal Prolion would be ideal for the first stall, 85 cows would call for an additional stall but not use it to its full capacity."

"As I said before, although the robotic milkers are not for everyone, my predictions are that they will be introduced in the United States this year and will work," said Reed. "They may allow the family farm to increase cow numbers without hiring additional labor."

Come And See The New UNI Aerobic Exerciser

at a public meeting on Monday, February 28 at 7 PM

Place: Leola Family Restaurant

365 West Main St. Leola, Pa.

Available with 3 different motors. Nothing like it!!!

1 110 volt AC heavy duty air cooled motor with a fan

2 12 volt DC motor (connects direct to a battery, and uses less than 1/2 the current a unit with an inverter does).

3 Air motor with quick snap on connection

All the units have the following features

Variable speed control. This is very important. It can do what a 1 or 2 speed unit can not do. Get better results!

Variable Sway Adjustment .A true swaying motion which can be adjusted while in use This and speed control are very important, because a short and light weight person needs a different swing than a tall or heavy person It can be adjusted to each person's need for best results.

Ball Bearing Mechanism. Requires less current to operate it and runs quieter. Tests proved it will not start knocking after a few months of usage like other units do.

Soft Cushion Foot-rest. More comfortable than hard plastic, and it needs no cover.

Patent Pending. This unique machine is so far advanced that these features are included in a pending patent.

2 Year Warranty. Since these units are more durable and run on ball bearings, they last longer, and are therefore guaranteed for 2 years, not 1 year like other exercisers.

Made in the USA. Not involved with any foreign mysticism.

STATE COLLEGE (Centre Co.)–Recently Pennsylvania DHIA held it's three-day training seminar in State College. This seminar is the final stage of the training a technician receives. Those attending were technicians from four different areas of the state. Dennis Liro of Bangor, serves herds in Northampton County as well as herds in New Jersey. Dennis is formerly a dairyman from Northampton County and is happy with the way he can stay active in the dairy industry.

Ron Wright of Mercer, is serving herds in Mercer County. Ron also has a horseshoeing business that he maintains.

Tom Finan of New Albany, is serving herds in Sullivan County. Tom says he enjoys working with dairymen and is looking forward to the job ahead.

Debra Cutshall is from Latrobe. Debbie is serving the herds in Westmoreland County. Debra is very excited about her new job and is anxious to serve the dairymen in her county.

ers and their families will be recognized for their successes areas: progressive business management, responsible use of resources and exemplary civic leadership.

The Master Farmer program is one of America's oldest and longest running agricultural honors programs, dating back to 1927. The award is co-sponsored by Pennsylvania Farmer and Maryland Farmer magazines and the cooperative extension programs of Pennsylvania, Delaware, Maryland, New Jersey and West Virginia.

"It's the 'Academy Awards of Agriculture,'said John Vogel, editor-in-chief of Pennsylvania Farmer and Maryland Farmer magazines. "Following standards established more than seven decades ago, it recognizes outstanding management, land stewardship and community role models. Our society very much needs such exemplary people who can be inspirations to others.

"This year's winners join the best of Mid-Atlantic agriculture. Mid-Atlantic Master Farmers comprise only 0.9% of all farmers in the five states," adds Vogel. "From their ranks have come a number of state and national ag leaders and several state agricultural secretaries."

For year 2000, more than 200 people from the five states were nominated. Eighteen candidates submitted completed applications for the competition. Eleven qualified for final-round judging by a New Jersey Department of Agriculture official, a Farm Credit official from Maryland and Dr. Robert Steele, dean of Penn State's College Agricultural Sciences.

Here's a review of this year's winners. Susan Blew is proof that you don't need a big farm to build a future. Her production innovations, marketing savvy, endless energy, plus enthusiastic support from husband Ted and their four children built Oak Grove Plantation near Pittstown, N.J. Blew's early years were spent on her parents' dairy farm. After an older brother's auto accident, her dream of farming also crashed at age 16 when her parents sold their working farm. That only deepened her resolve to farm.

The first time she met Ted, she was 16 and he was a young farm manager. After graduating from Bucks County Community College in 1973, she married Ted, who had the same goal - to own a farm. By then, she had added a stipulation to her goal - 'no farm, no family.' By 1975, the couple was farming more than 1,100 acres of rental land. She did the chisel plowing, harrowing, combining and putting away hay and straw. They also began producing crops for their roadside stand. In 1977, their partnership purchased their 160-acre Hunterdon County farm, kept farming the rental land and began a slow shift from wholesaling conventional vegetables to retailing organic specialty produce.

In 1981, they started a farrow-to-finish hog operation and began retailing pork products under their own label. That's also when they discovered Greenmarket, the open air farmers market in Manhattan's Union Square.

Today, Oak Grove Plantation retails 95% of their specialty crops grown on 27 acres and two greenhouses plus 90% of the pork raised in a converted dairy barn.

Their children, Charity, Eric, Amanda and Jonathan, are still at home and involved in the business. Every week, they truck product into NYC's Greenmarket, where she's knows as NYC's "Pepper Queen." Ted handles the market end; Susan, the production. She selects and saves seed for 275 hot Chile pepper varieties, 97 sweet pepper varieties, 88 heirloom tomato varieties, 95 herbs, 15 sunflowers, and 30 mescum varieties. They also market produce, plants, baked goods and a wide range of pork products.

Duane and June Hertzler developed a successful, less stressful grazing-based dairy.

Like most farm kids, Duane Hertzler learned to love the farm while growing up doing chores before and after school. For three years after graduating from Lancaster Mennonite High School, he worked away from the home farm near Mechanicsburg. Then in 1970, before returning home to farm, he met farm girl June at a church-sponsored coffeehouse. She was attending Lancaster General University, studying to become a registered nurse.

Over the next two years, Duane began adding cows to his father's herd. In 1972, Duane and June married and formed a partnership with his father. In 1978, the Hertzlers struck out on their own, buying their own 200-acre farm near Loysville in Perry County.

Their children, Joel, Neil, Becky and Heather, came along. And Moo-Echo Farms continued to expand into 1993 when they were farming close to 1,000 acres and milking 170 cows. After several severe droughts and a debt load that was also steadily rising, they realized "we were working too hard for the financial gains obtained," notes Duane.

January 1994 brought their decision to switch to rotational grazing and to build a high-tensile perimeter fence. By April, they were ready to start rotational strip grazing. Since then, they've cut back their farming acreage to about 550 acres, increased their owned land to 315 acres, and boosted their milking herd to 235 cows averaging more than 20,000 pounds production.

In 1999, Moo-Echo averaged more than 1-million pounds of milk per person. Today, the Hertzlers find life more enjoyable, due to reduced debt and grazing-based management. They still find time to be involved off the farm. June is the librarian for their local church and works fulltime as an RN for a juvenile detention center. Duane is a past board member of the local Agway and Ag Choice Farm Credit. He currently serves on the Pennsylvania Beef Council and Perry County's Farm Preservation Board, and has been an elder and a member of the long-range planning committee.

Lewis Riley, transitioned his poultry and crops business to his son while serving as a state ag leader.

Mid-Atlantic No-Till Conference Next Week

COLLEGE PARK, Md.–Over the past quarter-century, the Mid-Atlantic No-Till Conference has introduced a conservation concept that was new to many crop farmers and provided helpful information on how no-till adopters could refine their cropping practices to achieve the greatest profit potential.

"Hot" topics over the years have included no-till drilling techniques, machinery adjustments, nitrogen application, weed control, crop rotation and soil compaction.

To start off its second 25 years, the conference will offer breakout sessions and roundtable discussions on topics like cover crops, narrow-row silage, zone tillage, manure management, no-till vegetable production and the soil phosphorus index.

For the first time, the conference is scheduled at two locations on consecutive days–February 24 in the Four Points Hotel at Hagerstown, Md., and February 25 in the Holiday Inn at Grantville, Pa. As in all previous years, the conference is sponsored by cooperative extension at land-grand universities and by the USDA's Natural Resources Conservation Service in participating states, with assistance from interested agribusinesses and related organizations.

Identical sessions will run from 8 a.m. to 3:15 p.m. at both locations. A $20 registration fee, payable by February 16, will include lunch at one location. After February 16, the fee is $25. Registration brochures will be available soon at many cooperative extension county offices in Maryland and Pennsylvania. Or, contact Joel C. Myers, Pennsylvania state agronomist, Natural Resources Conservation Service, 1 Credit Union Place–Suite 340, Harrisburg, PA 17110-2993; phone: (717) 237-2208.

Lewis Riley is proud to be the fifth generation of his family to farm near Parsonsburg, Md. He's equally proud that son Lewis Quinton or "Quint" is part of the sixth generation to own the Wicomico County land. He's not bashful about noting the enjoyment that he and his family get ". . . get great satisfaction in being 'farm folks.'"

That enthusiasm drove him even as a youth. By age 17, he was farming 60 acres of his grandfather's land. He received Maryland FFA's State Star Farmer award in 1955 and the nation's American Farmer Degree in 1956. At age 20, he married wife Virginia. In 1958, the Rileys bought the first of their four farms - a house and small block of land. The next year, they grew their first chickens in a rented 5,000-bird house. In that same period, they also started their family - Quint, Patti and Terri.

Also in 1959, they bought a used 8,000-bird chicken house and had it delivered to the farm where he fixed it up. And in 1962, another 30,000-bird broiler house was built.

In 1962, he decided to run for county commissioner, and lost. Four years later, he won election to his first job as a politician. In 31 years of public office, Riley served 12 years in county government, eight years in Maryland's House of Delegates, five years in the Senate and six years as Deputy Secretary and Secretary of Maryland Department of Agriculture.

Today, principal ownership and management of the Rileys' Beaver Run Farms, Inc., has been transferred to Quint. The business now handles 120,000 Cornish chickens a year under contract to Perdue. The farm includes 550 acres owned and another 200 acres rented. Beaver Run trades custom work with a neighbor to get haying done. It also markets 500 to 600 hogs and produces feeders from a 75-cow beef herd.

In 1998, Riley resigned as state ag secretary due to his wife's illness. He continues to serve on the Peninsula Bank's advisory board, but chooses to stay close to home and "assist my son as time permits."

Farmers Find Ways To Improve And Expand At Housing Conference

JAYNE SEBRIGHT
Lancaster Farming Staff

CAMP HILL (Dauphin Co.) — The Dairy Housing and Equipment Systems conference was held in Camp Hill Tuesday through Thursday this week.

320 people attended the conference. About 40 percent of the attendees were farmers, including two who traveled all the way from Italy. The other attendees were from universities, industry, and extension.

The conference presented the latest innovations in dairy housing, along with the industry standards for existing housing components. The goal of the conference was to help farmers better manage existing systems and plan new systems that improve profitability. Speakers were leading experts in their field from various universities throughout the country.

Attendees at the recent dairy housing conference in Camp Hill had many opportunities to share ideas with other dairy farmers and leading experts in the industry.

According to Holly Hyde, editorial assistant for the Natural Resource, Agriculture, and Engineering Service (NRAES), this was the first conference of its type.

"We decide on conferences based on what's in demand," said Hyde. "Recommendations for NRAES conferences come from educators and researchers, who then form the planning committees to develop the conference."

NRAES is a branch of cooperative extension formed through a coalition of 14 universities in the United States.

Farmers who attended the conference came looking for new ideas. However, many of them also went away with suggestions on improving their existing operations.

Housing Conference

figure out how to do a better job at what we're doing," said Stiles. "I found out a lot about what housing systems work and what didn't work and why they work or don't."

For John Mueller of Clifton Springs, NY, the conference taught him as much about what to improve as it did about what's new. He milks 1,100 cows on Willow Bend Farm.

"We wanted to see what was new in dairy housing," said Mueller. "But I am finding out as much about what's wrong with my existing operation as I am about building a new one."

Mueller plans to go home and fix some of the problems he didn't know he had. "We thought we were doing things perfect," said Mueller. "Now I know where we can improved."

Another New York farmer is looking into a minor expansion. Russell Miller from Arcede, NY, milks 1,000 cows on Plato Brook Farm. He wanted to see if there were any new things he could use in the new facility.

"These meetings are always an opportunity for interchange with farmers we know and farmers we don't know," said Miller. "Hopefully we can take these information tidbits and put them to use."

"The conference also gives us the opportunity to sit back and take a fresh look at how we can do it better," said Miller.

A Bradford County farmer came to the conference because he is either going to expand or have to get smaller. Tim Beardslee from Lottahill Farms milks 180 cows.

"I am getting a lot of different ideas, and I need new ideas when I do expand," said Beardslee. "I am finding out what people I can go to for help."

Beardslee is most interested in finding ways to handle manure and nutrients to best benefit the environmental.

"I want to design the system so I can handle them better," said Beardslee. "It will take me three to four years of looking

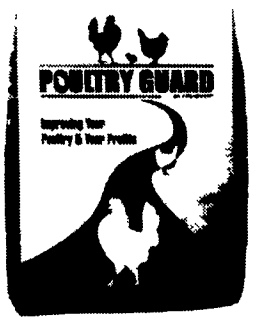
LITTER AMENDMENT

New Poultry Guard™ Litter Amendment is a unique activated clay that delivers consistent ammonia control without the handling inconvenience associated with other poultry litter treatments.

Unlike these other treatments, Poultry Guard Litter Amendment is easy and convenient to apply and needs no incorporation or activation Fewer application variables mean more consistent performance In addition, Poultry Guard can be applied up to five days before bird set, whenever it's convenient for the grower



Using Poultry Guard Litter Amendment Is As Simple As...

Apply
Simply spread over poultry litter.
- No incorporation
- No moisture activation
- No complicated instructions for heating and ventilation in conjunction with application

Bird Set
Poultry Guard can be applied when it's most convenient, up to five days before bird set.
- No application timing headaches between clean out and bird set
- No last minute application after equipment has been lowered

Control Ammonia
Poultry Guard will deliver immediate and long-term ammonia control and give birds a healthier growing environment.
- No more dangerously high levels of ammonia to stunt growth

You be the judge! We are confident this litter amendment will improve your poultry and your profits.

Students Awarded $8,000 In Scholarships

TUNKHANNOCK (Bradford Co.) - Emily Bryant, Honesdale, received the Lew Campbell $2,000 Memorial Scholarship award at the annual meeting of Sire Power, last month. Emily, a fourth year food science student at Penn State University, expects to graduate in May, and she plans a career in quality assurance or product development in dairy processing.

During her undergraduate studies at Penn State, Emily served as the vice president of the Food Science Club. In addition, she was involved in the Coaly Society, the food product development team, the Institute of Food Technologists, and in intramural activities. Her parents are William and Debra Bryant.

The Campbell award is given to a deserving student each year in honor of the former Sire Power general manager. Kirk Sattazahn, director of marketing, membership area, said Sire Power board members and the membership are committed each year to support future agricultural leaders in the awarding of these scholarships.

"We cannot emphasize enough the outstanding quality of the young people who apply," Sattazahn said. "This quality seems to increase each year.

A total of $8,000 in scholarships were awarded to 13 students during the meeting. In addition to the Campbell award, the students received $500 scholarships are:

• Marsha Bosch, daughter of Charles and Mavis Bosch, Doylestown, Pa., a sophomore animal science major at Delaware Valley College.

• Olivia Courtney, daughter of Harold and Sherry Courtney, Mansfield, Pa. a junior dairy and animal science major at Penn State University.

• Stacey Dietrich, daughter of William and Imogene Dietrich, Germansville, Pa., a sophomore dairy and animal science major at Penn State University.

• Jennifer Dotterer, daughter of Larry and Joyce Dotterer, Mill Hall, Pa., a junior dairy science major at Delaware Valley College.

• Kevin Harvatine, son of Paul and Susan Harvatine, Thompson, Pa., a junior animal science major at Penn State University.

• Mark Hazelton, son of Thomas and Elaine Hazelton, Mansfield, Pa., a junior animal science major at Penn State University.

• Amy Iager, daughter of Eugene and Kathy Iager, Fulton, Md., a sophomore dairy science major at Virginia Tech Institute.

• Darren Martin, son of Gerald and Carolyn Martin, Ephrata, Pa., a junior animal science major at Penn State University.

• Heather Oberholtzer, daughter of Clair and Mae Laverne Oberholtzer, Elizabethtown, Pa., a senior dairy and animal science major at Penn State University.

• Amanda Shahan, daughter of Paul and Diana Shahan, Pylesville, Md., a sophomore dairy science major at Delaware Valley College.

• Melissa Werley, daughter of Phillip and Donna Werley, Hamburg, Pa., a junior animal science major at Penn State University.

• Janice Youse, daughter of Paul and Linda Youse, Oley, Pa., a senior food science major at Penn State University.

Northwest PA Grazing Conference Set

SHIPPENVILLE (Clarion Co.)–Registration for the Third Northwest Pennsylvania Grazing Conference has been extended to February 23, 2000. This years conference will be held on February 28, 2000 at the Gemmel Center at Clarion University. Registration begins at 9:30 a.m. and the conference will start at 10:00 a.m.

The featured speaker this year is Jim Gerrish from the University of Missouri. Recently, Mr. Gerrish's research has focused on quantifying factors that affect grazing distribution across the landscape, how the length of grazing periods affect harvest efficiency, and the impact of different grazing systems on animal performance and economic return. According to Gary Swope from the Natural Resources Conservation Service's (NRCS) DuBois Field Office, Jim Gerrish practices what he preaches. "In addition to his research, Jim operates a 260 acre commercial cow-calf and stocker operation where he applies the concepts he's developed in his research," said Swope. Swope, along with representatives of Penn State's Cooperative Extension Service, the Jefferson Conservation District and Headwaters Resource Conservation and Development serve on the planning committee that has put together the conference over the past three years. Approximately 70 people attended the first conference in 1998. Last years attendance of 126 forced the committee to move to larger facilities at Clarion University's Gemmel Conference Center.

According to Nelson Smith, Cooperative Extension Agent from Clarion, its important for consumers to realize that a very small portion of each dollar they pay for milk goes to the farmer. "Today's dairy farmer receives approximately the same price for his milk as he did in 1978, while his costs for feed, equipment and fuel have increased significantly," said Smith. According to Swope milk producers don't have many options. They can try to produce more milk, they can lower their cost of production, or they can quit farming. Throughout the Northwest many have chosen the latter, to quit farming.

According to J.B. Harrold, grazing specialist with the NRCS and located in Somerset, the purpose of starting this annual conference was to bring first hand, up to date research and expertise directly to dairy and livestock producers.

"Hopefully what they are exposed to at the conference will show them that they use forage and pasture systems to significantly reduce their cost of production and increase their profit margin," said Harrold.

Susan Alexander, Cooperative Extension Service in Jefferson County, pointed out that reducing the cost of production is just as important in beef and other livestock operations. "Every penny that can be cut out of the cost of production goes right into the producers profit margin," according to Alexander.

Robert Jackson boosted the efficiency and profitability of his dairy and farming operations.

Robert Jackson's farm roots go deep - seven generations deep in Fayette County. While his father and uncle were Master Farmers of their generation, this generation of Jacksons had to earn his, too, via continual building of the partnership business.

After graduating from Penn State with an associate degree in ag business, the Brownsville dairyman returned to work full-time on the farm in 1975. By 1988, his father, Bob (a past Master Farmer), retired from their partnership. The younger Bob took over with a bent toward improving efficiencies and a business sense that has steadily increased profits almost every year since. One primary reason is that the farm's low debt load has underpinned the business growth over the years.

Today's Double J Farm includes 455 acres, of which 335 acres are cropland. Another 75 acres of cropland are rented to grow feedstuffs for the 125-cow registered Holstein herd averaging close to 23,000 pounds of milk production. Cows are milked a double-six parlor and housed in freestall facilities that provide a stall for every cow. Milking cows are split into high producer and low producer groups and fed for peak efficiencies at both levels.

Cow comfort and consistency in how they are fed and handled is important to Jackson and his three employees. Numerous management practices contribute to the bottom line. That includes monthly foot care and trimming, reliance on total mixed rations and maintaining more than adequate forage supplies to help weather drought year shortages. Written records are important. With them, Bob meticulously tracks cow performance and handles the herd's artificial breeding program.

Wife Joy keeps the farms records on computer, in addition to being mother to their children, Andrea, Amber, Adam and Aaron. Bob and Joy have received numerous awards, including recognition for serving as western regional leaders to Pennsylvania Council of Cooperative's young leader conference in 1993; in 1994, they served as conference chair couple.

Jackson is a past president of the Fayette County Holstein Association, and a current board member. He's also a board member of the local Dairy Herd Improvement Association, an alternate delegate for Dairy Farmers of America and a deacon at their local church.

James Witter expanded dairy and farming operations dispite major challenges.

Jim Witter learned early to seek the bright side of life amid the dark. Born in Shippensburg, and raised on a small dairy farm, he wasn't enthralled with dairying until he became a Dairy Herd Improvement Association (DHIA) milk tester at age 18. That work showed him there was a different kind of dairy farming, one he could get enthused about. It also introduced him to his first wife, Joann. And at age 21, they were married and began crop sharing the home farm they bought 12 years later. That same year (1970), Joann died suddenly, leaving him with a daughter and five sons. About six months later, he married Miriam who has been his helpmate ever since. Together, they raised his children Jean, Paul, David, Timothy, Steven and Mark.

Witter's sense of community and flair for fun led to several unusual projects. In 1977, an open house was scheduled for a new slurrystore being built on the farm. Jim went a step farther and hosted a concert inside it. In 1995, Witterdale Farms hosted a three-acre corn maze. More than 24,000 people walked its two miles of paths -- built as part of the annual Shippensburg Corn Festival.

Today, the business encompasses more than 400 owned acres with 320 acres being cropland. Another 250 acres, mostly cropland, are rented. Son David and nephew Tom manage the dairy herd. Jim's third son, Tim and fifth son, Mark, help with fieldwork and morning milkings. Their 300-cow milking herd averages about 18,700 pounds production. Witter has served on boards and in leadership positions of county farm groups and the local Chamber of Commerce. He's also been active in his local church, and founded the Shippensburg Chapter of Fellowship of Christian Farmers which he still leads.

State Budget Includes Increases For Animal Disease Prevention And Ag Promotion

is devoted to support administration of the Farmland Preservation program.

The budget also calls for an additional $375,000 for the Animal Health and Diagnostic Commission and two new initiatives totaling $795,000 to help fight animal diseases.

$720,000 will be devoted to monitoring the West Nile Virus in mosquitoes, birds, and animals. This virus can be transmitted as encephalitis to people.

$75,000 will go toward a Pennsylvania Dairy Quality Assurance Program to prevent the presence of infection in dairy and beef products.

The $375,000 will be used by the Commission to fund programs and research to identify and prevent new transmissible diseases.

"These new initiatives and the ten percent increase for the Animal Health Commission will help farmers who are dealing with animal health issues," said Senator Bill Slocum, chairman of the Senate's agricultural and rural affairs committee.

Part of the animal health initiative is increased funds to combat Johne's disease.

"The Governor's budget proposal also continues 1999's initiative to control animal health emergencies arising from foreign livestock diseases," said Hayes.

Hayes, Bunt, and Slocum all commended the governor for his increased support to promote agricultural products at home and abroad. An additional $179,000 is devoted to expanding consumer awareness and markets for Pennsylvania's food commodities.

"There is much to like in the Governor's proposed budget from the standpoint of the agriculture industry," said Bunt.

Slocum agreed. "The Governor has treated agriculture real fairly in the budget," he said. "That coupled with the drought relief package from last year is a real plus for agriculture."

From here, the Governor's proposed budget will be introduced as a House bill. Over the next several weeks, both the House and the Senate will hold hearings on the budget.

The House takes action on the proposed budget first and makes amendments to it. Then they send it over to the Senate to address the proposed budget and make amendments.

Eventually a joint-conference committee made up of both House and Senate members will come to agreement and approve their final version. Then the budget will return to Governor Ridge for his signature.

One thing that Senator Slocum wants to see added to the budget is something to address the inheritance tax issue.

"My colleagues and I are very concerned about this tax, which is probably the single number one reason why family farms are lost," he said. "Although it's not in the budget, I am anticipating that we will move in the direction of lowering or eliminating this tax."

One of the things that Representative Bunt wants added is an appropriation for Penn State University to help restore the lost capacity in the College of Agricultural Science.

In addition to the increases that Ridge proposed for ag promotion, farmland preservation, and animal health issues, there are also several other increases included for the Department of Agriculture. Those include:

✔ $201,000 to provide information and technology improvements.

✔ $120,000 to provide equipment for the Bureau of Ride & Measurement Standards.

✔ $100,000 for county fairs, along with five percent increases for both 4-H and FFA.

✔ $99,000 to support food safety and plant industry laboratories.

✔ $67,000 to the All-American Dairy Show and a five percent increase for the Keystone International Livestock Expo and the Jr. Dairy Show.

✔ $536,000 for state food purchases.

The budget continues to provide one million to production agriculture through allocation to conservation districts and 3.28 million to nutrient management programs.

In addition to the agriculture budget, Hayes applauded other budget initiatives that will help rural Pennsylvanians and agribusinesses.

"Financial assistance for volunteer fire and ambulances services, property tax rebates, better education for young people, and improved highways and bridges — these are all things important to agriculture," said Hayes.

"Overall, it's a good solid budget," said Slocum. "It's a great effort to cut taxes and put money where it's needed. It's a great budget for agriculture and for Pennsylvania tax payers."

Horse Pasture Workshop

BEDFORD (Bedford Co.)– Penn State Cooperative Extension in Bedford and Fulton counties will be holding two horse pasture workshops in Breezewood and Somerset. The Breezewood workshop will be held on March 7, 2000, at the Gateway Travel Plaza and the Somerset workshop will be held on March 23, 2000, at the Ramada Inn.

The purpose of the workshop is to teach horse owners how to improve the quality of their pastures. Topics covered at the workshop will include Managing Soil Fertility, Plant Species Selection, Pasture Renovation, and Weed Management, Poisonous Plants, Watering and Fencing for Pastures, and Grazing Management.

Melanie Barkley, Bedford County Extension Agent, said "The workshop is a great way for horse owners to learn how to increase the amount of grass produced in their pastures. Horse owners can then develop a diet for their horses which includes grass."

For more information you can contact the Penn State Cooperative Extension Office in Bedford County at (814) 623-4800 or in Fulton County at (717) 485-4111. Cost for the workshop is $10.00. The fee includes materials and refreshments.

Farm Bureau Wants Investigation of Oil Prices

CAMP HILL (Cumberland Co.)–The Pennsylvania Farm Bureau is urging the state At-torney General to investigate the cause of recent steep in-creases in home heating oil and diesel fuel prices which are impacting an agricultural community already on the ropes due to low farm prices and the aftermath of last year's drought.

In a letter sent this week to Attorney General Mike Fisher, the statewide farm organization called for prompt action on the crisis. Farm Bureau expressed its support for House Resolution 345 passed by the House of Representatives on Feb. 2 which calls for the Attorney General to investigate skyrocketing oil prices.

"Our farmer members are feeling the pinch of this price increase from both the business and personal slide," said PA Farm Bureau President Guy Donaldson in the letter to Fisher. "This is leading to increased costs of operating mach-inery on the farm, as well as increased costs for hauling of commodities produced on the farm.

"Combined with the lingering effects of last year's drought and severe drops in milk and other commodity prices, many farmers are struggling and do not need this additional burden"

In addition, Donaldson stated, the price of heating oil," . . . is 60% higher than it was this time last year and is continuing to rise. This is making it harder for already cash-strapped families to fully provide for their basic needs."

Farm Bureau is urging the Attorney General to undertake the investigation requested by the state House in H.R 345 to determine the extent to which the recent price increases, " . . are the result of legitimate market forces or unscrupulous business practices."

Furthermore, Farm Bureau is requesting the Attorney General to take any action necessary to minimize the impact of oil price increases, " to consumers in general and Pennsylvania farmers in particular"

into what I want before I finally do design the new system."

Randy Huntsman milks 350 cows in Martinsburg in Blair County. He is ready to begin breaking ground for another barn and expects to be milking 400 to 450 cows by mid-summer.

"I wanted to glean some ideas, and I was looking forward to talking to the vendors during Tuesday evening's trade show," said Huntsman.

Huntsman had questions about bedding choices and ventilation systems to best take care of cows during the summer."We want to do whatever is going to bring the best bottom line," said Huntsman.

Those who attended the conference learned about the hot topic in planning dairy housing facilities — cow comfort. Everthing from environmental control to freestall management and feed bunk design were discussed during the conference.

Look in next week's issue of the Lancaster Farming for a report on the freestall and bedding portion of the conference.

Pennsylvania Ayrshire Spring Convention Announced

TOWANDA (Bradford Co.)— The Pennsylvania 2000 Spring Ayrshire Convention is scheduled for April 7 and 8, 2000, in Towanda.

It will be held at the t the Williamston Inn, a quiet little Inn next to the Susquehanna River. It's a very warm, country kind of place that will make people feel right at home.

The Convention will include the Ayrshire Princess contest, a presentation about dairy promotion, presentation of the youth awards, and the announcement of the 2000 Hall of Fame winner. The 'Anything Goes' auction is scheduled for 8 p.m. on the 7th.

Saturday's agenda includes the Annual Meeting and an open house at Ray, Joann & Danny Hoppaugh's Farm. Lunch will be available at the Farm.

Those interested in attending the convention should return registration form to Ben Hillyard by March 24, 2000.

ers closed .50-1.00 lower. Losses came early in the week, but the market finally found support at the 67.00 level for the bottom-side of the Choice steer price range. The area experienced considerable melting of our snow stockpile this week, just in time to brace ourselves for yet another significant winter storm that moved in Friday. Slaughter cattle receipts continue to be light at the auctions and local direct country trading is reportedly almost non- existent. Northeastern packing plants are learning to rely on Midwestern cattle for the bulk of their kill and Lancaster County is merely filling in the gaps. Western feedlots sold .50-1.00 lower this week at 68.00-68.50 and mostly 108.00 dressed. Local Holstein steer demand remained good this week and prices held fully steady. Slaughter cows finished weak to 1.00 lower and instances 1.50 lower on the big fleshy cows (less than 85 pct lean). Slaughter bulls ended the week mostly steady. Supply included 37 percent slaughter steers, 6 percent slaughter heifers, 47 percent slaughter cows, 4 percent bulls, with the balance feeders.

SLAUGHTER STEERS: High Choice and Prime 2-4 1165-1495 lbs 68.50-71.85, few singles up to 74.50. Choice 2-3 1115-1495 lbs 67.00-69.50, high dressing 1-2 up to 72.75; 1495-1690 lbs 63.50-67.50. Select and low Choice 2-3 1035-1520 lbs 63.25-68.10; 1545-1825 lbs 58.25-62.75. Select 1-3 1050-1485 lbs 59.25-66.50.

HOLSTEIN STEERS: High Choice and Prime 2-3 1425-1510 lbs 61.00-64.00. Choice 2-3 1300-1675 lbs 58.00-62.25. Select and low Choice 2-3 1105-1640 lbs 54.10- 58.75. Select 1-2 1045-1545 lbs 50.50-55.50, package returning to feed 1180 lbs 56.00.

SLAUGHTER HEIFERS: Few high Choice and Prime 2-4 1045-1320 lbs 67.75-69.50. Choice 2-4 1080-1500 lbs 65.50-68.00. Select and low Choice 2-3 1015-1525 lbs 62.25-66.50. Select 1-3 1040-1465 lbs 57.00-63.50.

SLAUGHTER COWS: PERCENT LEAN WEIGHT BULK LOW DRESSING; Breakers: 75-80 pct lean, over-1400 lbs, 38.50-44.00, 36.75-41.50; Boners: 80-85 pct lean, over-1200 lbs, 36.00-41.00, 34.00-38.00; Lean (Hi-Yield): 85-88 pct lean, over-1200 lbs, 35.75-41.00, 34.00-37.75; Lean: 88-90 pct lean, over-1000 lbs, 33.75-37.75, 31.00-34.75; Lean (Light-Wt): 85-90 pct lean, 750 -1000 lbs, 31.50-36.00, 27.00-33.50.

SLAUGHTER BULLS: Yield Grade 1 1305-2220 lbs 51.75-62.00, few fancy fed bulls up to 66.75. Yield Grade 2 920-2165 lbs 43.25-52.25. Bullocks: Choice 2-3 1440-1530 lbs 49.25-55.25. Select 1-3 1060-1440 lbs 45.00-58.50.

CALVES: Compared to last week, veal calves closed mostly steady and larger slaughter calves ended 5.00-10.00 higher in a very light test. Holstein bull calves returning to special-fed veal barns fell out of a trading range that has kept prices up for the last several months. Fresh bulls ended the week as much as 30.00 lower for Number 1 quality calves. Some of the weakness may be blamed on the fact that this week's calf placements are due to finish during the week of July 4th. Holstein heifer prices closed steady to weak.

VEALERS: Few Good and Choice 70-110 lbs 20.00-40.00. Few Standard and low Good 60-90 lbs 11.00-22.00.

SLAUGHTER CALVES: Good and Choice 200-350 lbs 80.00-105.00; 350-550 lbs 68.00- 84.00.

RETURNED TO FARM: Holstein bulls 85-125 lbs 100.00-145.00, late in the week 100.00-125.00. Plainer-type bulls 75-125 lbs 75.00-128.00, few weaker calves down to 20.00. Holstein heifers 80-120 lbs 200.00-298.00. Plainer heifers 75- 100 lbs 125.00-260.00.

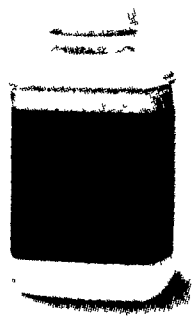
It scares wild garlic as much as garlic scares vampires.



Wild garlic bites. The smallest amount can dramatically decrease the quality and value of your harvested wheat crop. DuPont Harmony® Extra herbicide is your best defense against wild garlic.* It'll also stand its ground against chickweed, henbit, buttercup, mayweed and other scary weeds—some 60 in all. And its complete rotation flexibility allows you to double crop to soybeans. Don't let wild garlic take a bite out of your profits. Fight back with Harmony® Extra.

Heart Healthy Eating

Heart disease is a leading health concern among Americans. Although age, gender, and heredity can increase the risk of heart disease, research continues to support the role diet plays in increasing or decreasing the risk.

A great start toward total nutrition includes a diet made up of primarily plant-based foods (fruits, vegetables, and whole grains). That doesn't mean you can't eat meat. You can. Even red meat, which has received a bad rap. In moderation and as part of a balanced diet, red meat is an important source of iron, B vitamins, and protein. Red meat can be enjoyed three to four times a week in three- to four-ounce servings (the size of a deck of cards). Red meat does contain saturated fat so look for leaner selections.

Omega-3 fatty acids have been hailed as good fats. Polynusaturated omega-3s lower cholesterol and provide protection against heart disease, stroke, arthritis, and certain cancers. Cold water fish in particular are rich in omega-3s.

Salads are no longer boring repetitions of lettuce, tomatoes, and carrots, but have undergone stunning transformation in recent years. Instead of side dishes, salads are "entrees" and can present complete nutrition is a single dish — protein, fiber, carbohydrate, vitamins, and minerals.

Along with great taste and convenience, salads are a particularly healthful — but watch that you don't drown them with fatty salad dressings. Speaking of fat, you should limit your total fat intake to 30 percent of total calories and look for foods that have a low amount of saturated fat, which can clog the arteries. Unsaturated fats, such as those found in olive and canola oils, are your best choices.

Here are some nutritious hearth-healthy recipes to help you make the right choices.

CHICKEN SALAD MAKEOVER

2 cups cooked, diced chicken breasts
1½ cups seedless grapes
1 medium apple, cored, sliced
½ cup each raisins, diced celery
½ teaspoon dried tarragon, crushed
Salt and pepper to taste
2 to 4 tablespoons low-fat mayonnaise
2 to 4 tablespoons low-fat yogurt
¼ cup chopped parsley
Lettuce leaves
Sprig thyme, optional

Combine all ingredients except lettuce and thyme; mix well. Serve chicken salad on lettuce leaves. Garnish with thyme, if desired. Makes 4 to 6 servings.

Featured Recipe

Salads have undergone a stunning transformation in recent years to become the megastars of the plate. Instead of side dishes, they are "entrees" and present complete nutrition in a single dazzling dish.

Start with packaged salads as your base, which make it quick and convenient to get your "five a day" with a variety of washed greens and ready-to-eat veggies.

Sprinkle on crunchy walnuts. Add strips of salmon, halibut, beef, poultry or meat of your choice. It's a super salad complete with protein, fiber, carbohydrates, vitamins, and minerals.

Salmon Salad Monterey With Lemon-Dijon Vinaigrette unites salmon with crunchy greens. The result is a complete entree brimming with beneficial omega-3s for heart-healthy eating.

ORANGE AND CHICKEN SALAD

Grated peel of half a lemon
3 tablespoons lemon juice
1½ tablespoons vegetable oil
1 tablespoons honey
¼ teaspoon ground ginger and curry powder
1 cup shredded cooked light meat chicken
1 cup cooked orzo pasta
2 navel oranges, peeled, cut into bite-sized pieces
2 medium bananas, peeled, sliced
1 red or green apple, unpeeled, cut into bite-sized pieces
1 cup seedless green or red grapes, cut in half
½ cup sliced celery

In large bowl, combine lemon peel and juice, oil, honey and spices. Stir in remaining ingredients; chill. Serve on salad greens and garnish with lemon slices. Makes six 1-cup servings.

CHINESE VEGETABLE STIR-FRY

Sweet and Sour Sauce:
¾ cup pineapple juice
1 tablespoon sugar
1 tablespoon lemon juice
1½teaspoons corn starch
1 teaspoon light soy sauce
Stir-Fry Vegetables:
4 teaspoons vegetable oil
1 cup broccoli florets
1 cup sliced carrot
1 cup cauliflower florets
1 cup sliced celery
1 cup chunked red bell pepper
1 cup sugar peas, stems removed

Combine ingredients for the Sweet 'N Sour sauce in a mixing bowl. Heat oil in a skillet over medium high heat. Add broccoli, carrots, cauliflower, and celery, cook for 2 minutes. Add bell pepper and sugar peas, cook for 2 minutes. Add Sweet 'N Sour sauce, bring to a boil and cook for one minute, covered. Serve vegetables while hot. Makes 4 to 6 servings.

SALMON SALAD MONTEREY WITH LEMON-DIJON VINAIGRETTE

1¼ pounds salmon fillet, thawed
Salt and pepper
3 tablespoons olive oil
1½ tablespoons lemon juice
1½ teaspoons snipped chives
1 teaspoon honey
½ teaspoon Dijon-style mustard
¼-⅓cup chopped walnuts, toasted
10-ounce package salad mix
1 cup red seedless grapes, halved

Preheat broiler. Cut salmon into 4 pieces; place on lightly oiled broiler pan. Season with salt and pepper as desired. Broil salmon 4 inches from heat for 7-9 minutes or until fish flakes easily with fork. Meanwhile, for dressing, in a shaker jar combine oil, lemon juice, chives, honey, and mustard.

Cover and shake well. Reserve half the toasted walnuts for garnish. In large bowl, toss together desired salad mix, grapes, and remaining walnuts. Spoon salad mixture onto four dinner plates. Place one piece of salmon over each salad. Shake dressing; drizzle over each salad. Sprinkle salads with reserved walnuts. Garnish with fresh chives, grape clusters and lemon slices as desired.

GOLDEN APPLE MERINGUES

2 large apples, pared, halved
2 cups apple juice
½ cup orange marmalade
2 egg whites
2 tablespoons sugar
2 tablespoons chopped toasted almonds

Poach apples in apple juice about 5 to 7 minutes or until barely tender; drain. Spoon 2 tablespoons marmalade into center of each half. Beat egg whites to soft peaks. Add sugar gradually; beat until stiff. Fold in almonds. Cover tops of apple halves to edges with meringue. Bake at 350 degrees for 7-10 minutes or until lightly browned. Makes 4 servings.

Apple Commission

WHOLE WHEAT DROP BISCUITS

1 cup whole wheat flour
1 cup unbleached flour
1 tablespoon oil
1 tablespoon baking powder
¾ cup skim milk

Mix all ingredients together. Adjust milk if necessary to obtain desired consistency.

Drop by spoonfuls onto a non-stick baking sheet.

Bake at 350 degree oven 10-15 minutes. Yields 14 biscuits.

I often hear parents talk about their children "changing" around the age of ten. It is not only the outward physical changes that they are noticing, but there is definitely an emotional change that is going on inside their child. The frustrating thing is that it almost seems as though this wonderful child just woke up one morning with an "attitude." If you are a parent of an adolescent, you know what I am talking about.

Some of the new characteristics that often accompany the adolescent stage are increased moodiness and sensitivity (girls cry for seemingly little reason), arguing (they feel they are being perfectly logical–you on the other hand think they are "talking back"), explosive with anger, self-centered, resists doing household chores, and goes to extremes with emotions–loves or hates, worries about appearance, needs privacy, and feeling that "no one understands."

Not all adolescents will experience all of these characteristics nor will they experience them all at one time. As a mother of three who has gone through this stage three times, I can attest that each child exhibits different characteristics in their own timeline. Just when you think you have them figured out, they'll change and begin a new behavior. (Isn't parenting wonderful!) Many children will start this developmental process at the age of nine; others may never exhibit any of these qualities.

As parents, there are certain survival skills that we have to follow for everyone to successfully get through this stage of development. First of all, it usually hits us at one of our most vulnerable times in life. We are in the stage of "getting older" as well. Think about it–most of us have just hit midlife! All of a sudden life seems to be moving too fast. I find myself looking at my youngest son, who will be 16 in two months, wondering where all the years went by. It seems as though he was just beginning kindergarten yesterday–now he wants to buy a car and critiques my driving skills.

On the other end of the lifeline are my parents who are celebrating their 51st wedding anniversary this month. As parents, at this stage we are sometimes referred to as the "sandwich" generation. You not only have to deal with your children being adults in training wheels, but your parents are nearing the age where you may need to care for them as well. Forget your midlife crisis, you don't really have the time or energy to deal with it. You must move with the direction your family is going.

There is a certain reality about life at this point that impacts you as a parent that you may have experienced before. Retirement planning becomes a tool that really should be considered, physical activity and nutritious eating habits need to be addressed, women are faced with the end of their reproductive years, and questions like, "Have I fulfilled my dreams and goals in life?" often cross our minds.

Taking all of this into consideration, no wonder it bothers us so much that this wonderful mild mannered child of yesterday is now staring us in the face and stating in no uncertain terms that he can make his own decisions and is no longer a child. Maybe we parents should cry, "No fair!" After all, we are going through developmental changes too!

Regardless, the bottom line is that we are the parents, and we too shall get through this stage keeping the family intact How do you do this? Patience, perseverance, and communication. Recognizing what is happening and exploring all the options as best you can will help everyone through this challenging stage of your family's life. Understanding what happens at certain ages can help parents guide their children more effectively as they turn into those happy, independent adults we all want them to be. Welcome to the stage of adolescence!

Mixed signals.

They confounded my mental processes while driving through a local small town one day last week. (Not that it takes all that much . .)

The mixed signals were relative to exactly what seasonal state I should be in.

Hanging overhead, at neatly spaced intervals on light poles along the town's streets, were green and red Christmas banners. And interspersed at several homes along the same street, wafting gently back and forth in the light breeze, hung red-hearted Valentine flags

Droplets of water splattered across my car's windshield from each car passing in the opposite direction, meltout from the icy-slush mountains of snow, which had been pushed up on curbs and corners in the wake of the area's recent spate of mid-winter storms. Although I'd just run the car through a local car-wash, it was rapidly recoating itself with a layer of that road-melt salt and chemical mix which dries to a gritty, grayish, paint-destroying residue.

Snow stretched across the lawns and the fields just behind the single row of small town homes, evidence that winter was very much still in residence. But it remained beautifully pristine where not marred by the passage of plows, salting trucks and the endless parade of cars, giving the landscape that Currier and Ives look which we traditionally associate with the Christmas season and the town's celebratory banners.

A pack of heart-shaped stickers, paper reproductions of the classic "message" candies which turn up in the stores during February, lay in a bag on the backseat with other Valentine goodies for the kids in our lives

Our grandsons had begun celebrating the "love" holiday a few weeks early, making cards and related projects. Several of them in fact, bedecked the utilitarian white doors of our refrigerator and dishwasher, blessedly drawing eye attention away from the floor streaked with snow-melt footprints.

Mentally, I associate cold and snow with the. Christmas holidays, but not necessarily Valentine's Day. Makes no sense, really, since it's much more common to have snow hanging around in mid-February than in late December in our particular part of the world. So the culture clashing of these seasonal banners to my mindset might be confusing, but is pretty normal.

Then I was brought up short with the bright color from a flag hanging outside of yet another house, in stark contrast to everything else within sight.

This flag was paintbox pretty, bright with butterflies and blooms in pastels of pinks and blues and lavenders. I couldn't help but grin at its obvious message of optimism.

Someone, it this house, was defiantly hanging out a protest sign to the weather.

Spring–silently shouted that lovely flag–has to be right around the corner. Or, maybe, just under the ten inches of icy white stuff then spread across the landscape in all directions.

Exposed by the since-melting piles of snow in the yard, early daffodils hold tiny, tight buds in the center of their clumps of spiky foliage. Dandelions are ready to sprint into bloom on our south-sloped lawn, gaining an extra boost of encouragement from the moisture trickling down from the snowmelt.

And the leafbuds on our lilac bush opposite the calf nursery swell fatter with each sunny, warming day, ready to burst with just the slight encouragement of a warm, south breeze.

Just the thought of spring cheered me up the rest of that afternoon, further encouraged by bright sunshine which pushed through the slightly chilly breeze. Then, just as I stepped onto the basement porch at dusk, a section of the melting snow on the roof above let loose its grip on the sloped metal, right onto my head.

A pointed reminder from Mother Nature not to get too carried away just yet.

Join in the optimism rally.

Hang out those spring flags.

Stress Management Workshop For Child Care Providers

TOWANDA (Bradford Co.)– "How to Take the Stress Out of Caregiving" is the topic of an upcoming workshop for child care providers.

Sponsored by Penn State Cooperative Extension in Bradford County, the workshop will be held on Thursday, March 2, 2000, from 7:00 to 9:00 p.m. at the Extension Office, Bradford County Annex, 701 South Fourth Street, Towanda. Anyone who cares for other people's children is invited to attend this free informational program. Interested parents and grandparents are also welcome to attend.

The workshop will focus on recognizing the signs and symptoms of burnout and how to deal with it, learning on-the-spot relaxation techniques, and how caregiver stress affects children. It will be telecast live via satellite from Penn State University throughout the U.S. Experts on the subject of child development and care will be the featured presenters. Participants will be able to call in questions to the experts and there will be time for local discussion.

All workshop participants will receive a certificate of attendance. Licensed child care providers who attend will receive credit for two training hours.

Persons planning to attend are asked to register by February 28 by contacting the Bradford County Extension Office at phone (570) 265-2896. The workshop will be held in the second floor meeting room. If you would like to attend, but are unable to use the stairs, please contact the Extension Office by February 18.

Consumers May Begin To Dig Root Crops On the Dinner Plate

UNIVERSITY PARK (Centre Co.)–The special tastes of turnips, rutabagas, parsnips and beets–called "root crops" by farmers–may be making a comeback on the nation's dinner menu, says a vegetable specialist in Penn State's College of Agricultural Sciences.

"Baby boomers' parents and grandparents ate a lot of root crops, but after World War II these vegetables fell by the wayside because they were seen as 'poor man's' food," says Pete Ferretti, professor of vegetable crops. "During the Great Depression, people ate these items because they could grow them cheaply, and they could be stored for long periods in root cellars or outside. They often took more work to prepare."

Ferretti says restaurant chefs and gourmet cooks are starting to use root vegetables in recipes again. "They can be used in soups, stews and casseroles," he says. "Cooks need only a small amount of these crops to give recipes a distinctive flavor."

Ferretti says home gardeners can easily grow root crops–which include carrots and radishes–although Pennsylvania soil conditions can hamper some varieties.

"Many root crops suffer in our typically clay soil, particularly carrots and parsnips," he says. "They have to struggle to grow in heavy soil, and that produces a smaller root that often is rough and distorted."

All root crops are grown from seed, so gardeners need not worry about transplanting young plants.

•Carrots. Ferretti recommends growing two types. Nantes or Danvers, starting April 1. "Nantes carrot varieties are thick, shaped like a torpedo and have a blunt end, which pushes through clay-laden soils," Ferretti says. "Danvers varieties are wedge-shaped. Other types and varieties can split or produce a misshapen carrot."

•Radishes. Gardeners should plant radishes in the same row as carrots, according to Ferretti. The faster-growing radishes will loosen and break through the crust of the soil to allow better growth for the slower-growing carrots. They can be planted by April 1 and then again during the last two weeks of August. He recommends placing seeds about an inch apart when planting.

Radishes come in many varieties, including white, black and various shades of red. Ferretti recommends the Champion, Sparkler and Improved Red Prince varieties for best results in Pennsylvania.

•Beets. This sturdy vegetable probably is affected least by Pennsylvania's heavy soils and can be planted in early April. "Almost all the varieties are round or torpedo-shaped," Ferretti says. "They should be planted about 1 to 3 inches apart to give them room to grow."

Beets require high levels of boron, so gardeners should mix 4 teaspoons of laundry borax powder into a gallon of water. "Don't use more than that," Ferretti warns. "Boron can be toxic to beets as well as most other plants when present in excessive levels."

Two top red varieties are Ruby Queen and Red Ace. Red Ace has darker, more even color and is very sweet and tender. Ferretti also recommends Burpee Golden Beet, a yellow variety, which some cooks prefer because it lacks the red juice that stains hands, utensils and other food items.

•Parsnips. A cool-season vegetable, parsnips can be planted in late April and left in the ground until late fall or even over the winter. Like carrots, they are slow to germinate, so make sure the soil is 'deeply spaded and does not form a crust. "Ethylene gas gives carrots and parsnips a bitter taste," Ferretti says. "Never store them with apples, pears, tomatoes or other ethylene-producing fruits."

Parsnips should be planted and then thinned so plants are about 4 inches apart. To prepare parsnips, cooks must peel the outer layer and remove the core. Ferretti recommends quartering the parsnip and then lifting the core out. The All-America variety is recommended.

•Turnips. Turnips attain their best quality when grown under cool temperatures. They usually reach edible size in about 60 days. Most turnip varieties are mature when they reach about 2 inches in diameter. Suitable varieties include Just Right and Purple Top White Globe.

"You can plant these in early April and again in late July," Ferretti says.

•Rutabagas. Rutabagas need about 90 days to mature and should be planted around July 1. These vegetables have a quarter-inch-thick outer skin. The outer skin can be chopped off with a heavy knife, and the remainder is peeled until the tender yellow flesh begins to appear. Varieties include Macomber and American Purple Top.

Diseases

Carrots, beets and parsnips all can be affected by leafspot diseases. Turnips are affected by clubroot, which causes the root to distort or swell. Carrots and parsnips are susceptible to root knot nematodes, which cause small swellings in the crop and plant roots.

Insect Pests

Flea beetles, leafhoppers and green peach aphids all target plant leaves or plant parts.

The maggot stage of some insects can severely damage the edible root portion. Leafminers attack the leaves, causing blotches and interior trails. The carrot rust fly, which also affects parsnips, is not problem every year, so control measures may or may not be needed.

The cabbage maggot affects radishes, turnips and rutabagas. There can be four to five broods of the maggot, the first of which usually hatches in April. "Covering the crop with a lightweight polypropylene row cover immediately after seedling emergence can protect against almost all insect pests," Ferretti says.

Certified Angus Beef Program Signs On As Olympic Supplier

"In only three weeks of using the Chi Machine, I lost 15 pounds effortlessly - and hospital lab tests showed that my blood cholesterol level dropped from 225 to 160 mg"

How do I use my Chi Machine?
* Place the machine on a rug Lie on your back and put your ankles in the grooves of the footrest on top of the machine
* Set the timer switch to activate the machine for the number of minutes you desire First time users should start with 2-5 minutes
* The footrest will begin to move back and forth, carrying your feet briskly from side to side This movement will carry up through your legs and torso, throughout your entire body, causing you to wiggle back and forth - that's right like a fish swimming in water
* All you do now is relax and breathe deeply, letting the machine rock you gently but firmly for a maximum of 15 minutes
* When the time is up and the machine stops, remain lying down for another two to five minutes, relaxing and breathing deeply, enjoying the remarkable afterglow - chi - as it moves throughout your body

"In two months of using the Chi Machine, my thighs, hips, stomach and buttocks now look as good as they did when I was in my 20's - and I'm almost 52"

According to the Millers, big families are fun. They ought to know with a family of eight. Parents Grace and Eric are surrounded by children Daniel, 20; Laura, 19; Eldon, 16; Joel, 14; Alicia, 12; and Patrick, 10.

"The sewing machine has always been the center of our home," Grace said. Although she has tried to relegate her bridal sewing business to a back room in the farmhouse, she finds it works much better to be the hub of family living.

Big Families Have More Fun

LOU ANN GOOD
Lancaster Farming Staff

MOUNT JOY (Lancaster Co.) — Having six children in this era isn't commonplace. It's enough to garner lots of stares when the family walks down the street.

Grace Miller laughs as she recalls the reactions of some people who find it difficult to believe that she and her husband Eric have six children who range in age from 10 to 20.

"I love a big family," Grace said. "I think people who don't have big families are missing out."

The Millers have made conscious choices that enable them to enjoy a large family in an era noted for hectic schedules and expensive toys.

"Early on, my husband and I selected the motto: I must live simply so others may simply live," Grace said.

That philosophy affects every area of family life. Some people may observe that it means no television, few presents, and little money.

It does. But so much more is included — most often spelled "time." It's teaching children the satisfaction of working with their hands, of working together until a job is completed, and having fun doing it.

An example of that is daughter Laura, 19, who was the 1999 Elizabethtown Fair Queen, and who, for six years, clinched "best of show" at the state level for her sewing fashions.

Laura achieved her sewing expertise just like Grace did — by watching her mother.

Grace said that she grew up as the eighth child in a family of nine.

"I used to sit on the mending pile and watch my mom sew," Grace said.

Because Grace was left-handed, she became frustrated trying to imitate her mother's sewing movements. But by fourth grade, Grace had made her first dress from fabric scraps. By 12 years of age, Grace was quilting.

Her high school teacher recognized her sewing skills. Instead of insisting she sew a beginner's basic project, the teacher assigned her to sew projects for her.

After high school, Grace sewed bridal gowns for a few friends. Her reputation spread. Since then, Grace is booked month's in advance. For the last four summers, Laura has assisted her mother in the bridal business.

"Laura is a natural at designing. She can visualize a project better than I can," Grace said. Rather than purchase new clothing, Laura enjoyed buying thrift shop clothing and making changes to fit her personal style.

Laura is studying fashion design and production at LaSalle Fashion Institute, Boston.

"My sewing machine has been the center of everything," Grace said of it's location. "I've given up my living room for a sewing room, but it's been worth it for the children."

Her sewing room is in one of the farm house's large rooms. The adjoining living room is where the family gathers, encouraging family togetherness.

When the children were small, Grace pieced at least 100 quilts and was hired by several artists to quilt projects that have been pictured in several newspapers, magazines, and even in a book.

Grace gained skill in fitting clothing and in combining patterns through experience.

"When you work with fabric and patterns, you soon understand how lines work and how to manipulate them," Grace said of adapting styles to clients' wishes.

The custom-made bridal gowns allow brides to combine features in several dresses into the gowns of their dreams.

"Precision is the name of the game. If you cut right, it will sew right," Grace said of the frustration improperly cut fabric produces.

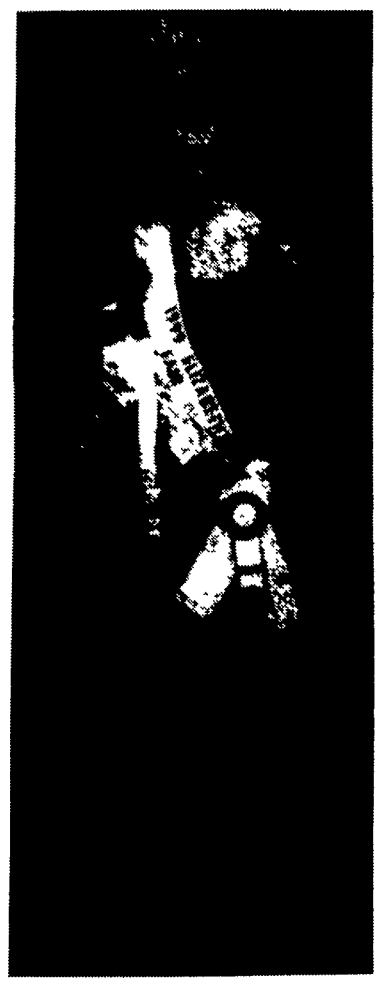
As a 4-H leader, Grace said she stresses the importance of learning to cut and sew straight. She is proud that her 4-H members all advanced beyond county competition in 4-H.

Unlike most sewing clubs, Grace begins classes in January. Although Grace is a 4-H sewing leader, Laura was never in 4-H. By the time her mother was teaching, Laura was so advanced she preferred sewing independently. This limited the sewing competitions that she was eligible to enter.

Grace limits her own competitions. Although she has won many ribbons for her sewing projects, she stopped entering in local fairs because she didn't want to stand in the way of amateur seamstresses.

"I want others to find the satisfaction of working with their hands," Grace said.

She even allows some of her clients to sew some parts of their gown to give them the satisfaction of "making it."

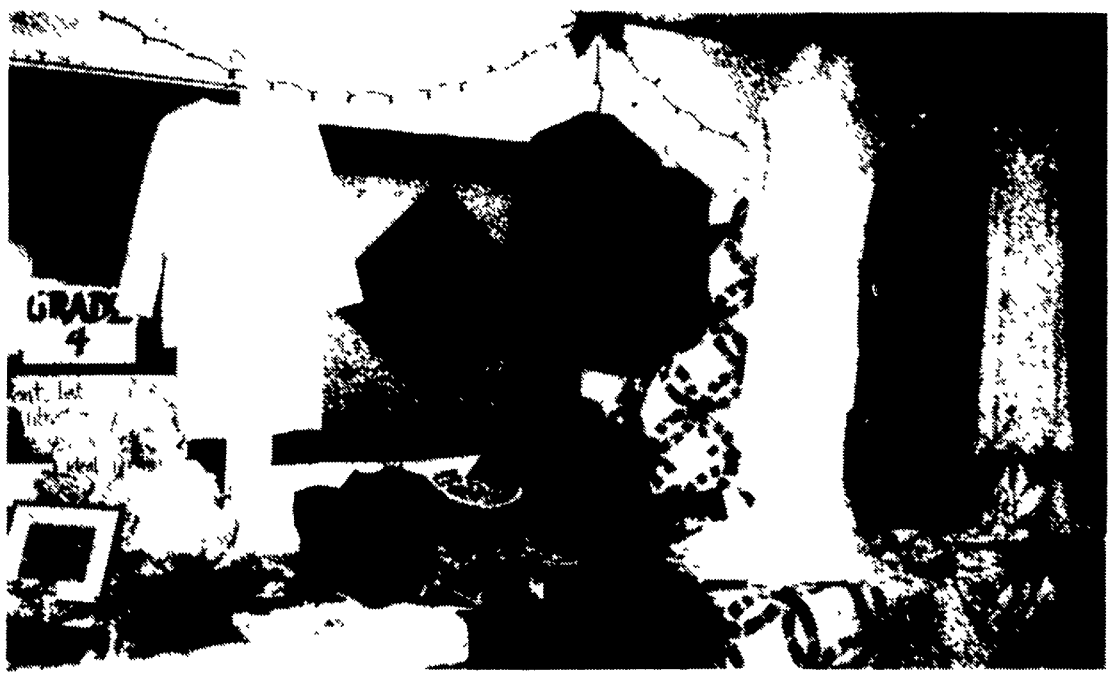


As the 1999 Elizabethtown Fair Queen, Laura wore the gowns she made. An accomplished seamstress, Laura is studying fashion design and production at LaSalle, Boston. She is also a recipient of Lancaster County's Farm and Home Foundation Scholarship.

Some clients purchase their own fabric. Others rely on Grace to buy it. Most of the fabric Grace purchases is from the Columbia Sewing Outlet and from Philadelphia fabric stores.

"I don't keep a fabric inventory. Colors change. This year's burgundy is not the same shade

(Turn to Page B7)



These are a few of the many sewing projects Grace has recently completed. Grace said that she learned to sew by sitting on a pile of mending while watching her mother at the sewing machine. The family tradition continues with daughter Laura, who learned by watching Grace. The two had the unusual distinction of winning "best of show" in the adult and youth constructed clothing division at the state Farm Show.

More Fun

as last year's," she said of fashion choices.

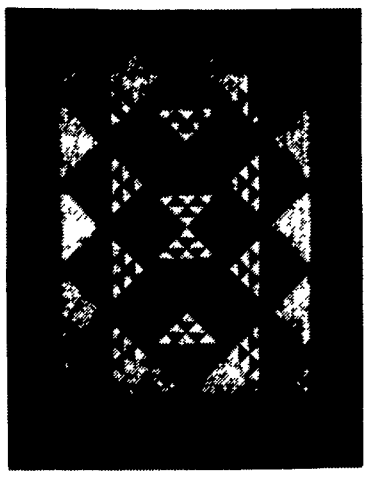
Grace charges by the hour and is adept at estimating time before beginning a job. She also works as a wedding coordinator and does bridal alterations on purchased gowns.

During the month of December, Grace concentrates on family sewing. In response to their requests for Christmas, Grace sewed a reversible coat, a heavy winter coat, a flannel shirt, three polar fleece jackets, a polar vest, and two pairs of fleece pajamas.

"I love sewing. But sewing for my family is my favorite thing," Grace said.

For 12 years, Grace and Eric homeschooled the children. It has been their observation that children do well if they have had two years of public schooling during their elementary years and then attend public high school.

The Millers rent a farmhouse. They own one Jersey cow that they hand milk to supply the family's milk. Eric is a carpenter.



In addition to piecing quilts, Grace has also quilted projects for nationally recognized quilt artists.

Because Grace and her daughter had the unusual distinction of both winning "best of show" awards in their age categories at the Pennsylvania Farm Show, this article focuses on them. But Grace said that each of their children pursue different interests.

The oldest son Daniel is a computer science major at LaTourne, Texas. Eldon is 16, Joel, 14, Alicia, 12, and Patrick, 10.

"We don't encourage competition among the children. It is not important for them to excel but to understand practical skills so that when they leave home, they can function without us," Grace said.

People often ask how Grace can accomplishes so much. She explains, "Part of survival in a large family is working together. Because we do not have television, we read, play games, encourage creativity, and have assigned chores.

She doesn't burn midnight oil on sewing projects or housework. She said that she and her husband have always made it a rule not to work after the children are in bed.

"To function properly, I need eight to nine hours of sleep at night," Grace said.

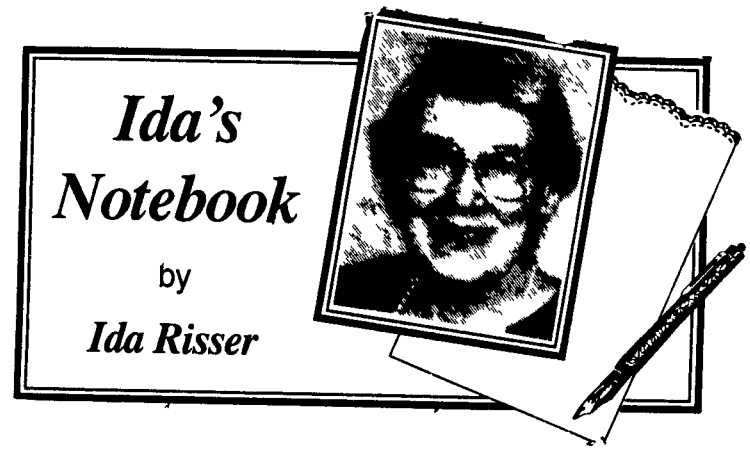
Although Grace does most of the family cooking, she does not do dishes or cleaning, which are chores assigned to the children.

She said, "Our children complain sometimes. They're normal."

Sometimes they want more things just like their peers. But their parents tell them, "We have chosen not to give you everything you want. We want you to learn to give and not to be selfish. Our lives are not our own but are to benefit others."

Raising a large family is not without a price. "It's a huge responsibility. We have sacrificed monetary gain," Grace said as she glanced around their modestly furnished home. "But we have been able to enjoy playing and working together."

For the Millers, that's a goal worth the sacrifice.



This morning I looked over my mother's diary from 1938. There were seven girls in the family–ages 3 to 17–and it was a busy life.

What impressed me was how many notes were made concerning sickness. It seems that one of us, during the winter, always had a cold or a fever. And, one time it was noted that only six students were at our two room school out of some 30 as everyone had the measles.

At home we always had dishes to wash and tobacco to strip. And of course, lots of cooking and baking to do. We butchered a sheep and three hogs. There were three cans of lard from the butchering and we used it in baking and frying potatoes which we ate every day as it was my father's favorite dish.

My parents had a flock of turkeys who roamed in the meadows and woods during the spring and summer. They sold 27 of them over the holidays and bought a new tom turkey. We ate the old one that weighed 28 pound.

Every Sunday we went to Sunday School and church. In the afternoon we visited relatives or they visited us.

My father worked very hard as he put down a stone base for a long lane to another farm by breaking big stones with a stone hammer. He also had to chase our steers to the Conestoga River everyday for water.

The painters who worked on the barn and house were paid .45¢ per hour. We were paid .19¢ a dozen for eggs that a huckster picked up at the farm. The tobacco was sold for .13¢ per pound. That year we grew 14 bushel of sweet potatoes and my mother noted that she made a big iron kettle of soap for washing clothes. There was always work to do.

QUESTION — Phyllis Stauffer, Carlisle, wants a recipe that Little Caesar's used to have. It was a buttery dip with herbs that they served with breadsticks.

ANSWER — Carol Nunn, New Columbia, wanted a recipe for banana butter. Thanks to Audrey Minns for sending the following recipe.

Banana Butter

4 large bananas, ripe and sliced
3 tablespoons lemon juice
1½ cups sugar
1 teaspoon pumpkin pie spice

Process bananas and lemon juice until smooth; transfer to saucepan. Stir in sugar and spice; bring to a boil. Reduce heat and simmer, stirring 15 minutes. Serve on toast, etc. Store in refrigerator.

Yields 3 cups.

ANSWER — Mrs. Zimmerman, Manheim, wanted recipes, hints, and cookbooks that teaches cheese and yogurt making. She also wanted the name of a mail-order company where she can purchase cultures for cheesemaking.

Thanks to Audrey Minns for recommending the following mailorder company: New England Cheese Making Supply, 85 Main St., Ashfield, MA or phone (413) 628-3808.

ANSWER — Clara Hess, Little Marsh, wanted a recipe for Greek basic white bread. Thanks to Audrey Minns for sending a recipe.

Greek Farmers Bread

1¼ pounds unbleached white flour
4 teaspoons instant yeast
2 teaspoons sugar
1¼ cups lukewarm water
1 tablespoon oil
2 teaspoons salt

Put flour in bowl. Make a well in the middle. Put the yeast and the sugar in the well. Pour water over the mixture. Mix slightly. Cover and put in warm place for 15 minutes. Knead, adding the salt and oil to make a smooth elastic dough. Cover and put in a warm place for another 15 minutes. Knead thoroughly and place on a baking sheet. Cover and put in a warm place for another 15 minutes. Put in a cold oven and turn to 375 degrees. Bake 40-45 minutes until golden brown. Let cool 20 minutes before slicing.

QUESTION — S. Kanady, Mickleton, N.J., wanted a recipe to make Jewish kosher pickles of green tomatoes. Thanks to Ed Bibic, Telford, for sending a recipe he has used more than 20 years. He has modified to orginal recipe. Bibic writes that cooler temperatures such as in a cellar or refrigerator produces better pickles than the warmer room temperatures of summer months. The recipe works equally well with whole or sliced pickles. Can cut length-wise, slice or use whole.

Jewish Kosher Pickles

1 quart white vinegar
2 quarts water
½ cup kosher or pickling salt
⅛ teaspoon powdered alum
1 clove garlic, minced
2 heads dill
1 small red pepper
Grape or cabbage leaf
1 tablespoon whole mustard seed
1 tablespoon pickling spice
1 tablespoon dill seed

Combine vinegar, water, and salt. Bring to a boil. Pour over other ingredients in one gallon crock or jar. Weight and cover. Allow one week to 10 days.

ANSWER — Here are some more recipes for Kathi Taylor, Shickshinny. Thanks to Lil Nissley, Paradise; Lois Crone, and others for sharing recipes.

Arizona Chunky Peanut Butter Pie

1 cup light corn syrup
1 cup sugar
⅓ cup chunky peanut butter
3 eggs, slightly beaten
½ teaspoon vanilla extract
9-inch unbaked pie shell

Combine first five ingredients in mixer bowl. Mix well. Pour into pie shell. Bake 15 minutes at 400 degrees. Reduce temperature to 350 degrees and bake 30-35 minutes or until edges are set. Serves 6.

Peanut Streusel Pie

⅓ cup peanut butter
¾ cup confectioners' sugar
9-inch baked pie shell
⅓ cup flour
½ cup sugar
⅛ teaspoon salt
2 cups milk, scalded
3 eggs, separated
2 tablespoons butter
½ teaspoon vanilla extract
¼ teaspoon cream of tartar
½ cup sugar
1 teaspoon corn starch

Preheat oven to 350 degrees. Combine peanut butter and confectioners' sugar in bowl until crumbly. Sprinkle two-thirds of mixture in the pie shell. Combine flour, half of the sugar, and salt in double boiler. Stir in milk. Cook over boiling water until thickened, stirring constantly. Stir in small amount of hot mixture into egg yolks; stir egg yolks into hot mixture. Cook for several minutes longer. Remove from heat. Add butter and vanilla. Pour into pie shell. Beat egg whites until stiff peaks form. Add cream of tartar and mixture of half cup sugar and corn starch gradually, beating constantly until very stiff peaks form. Spread over pie sealing the edge. Sprinkle with remaining peanut butter mixture. Bake for 10 minutes or until golden.

HALIBUT SALAD WRAPS WITH WALNUT SALSA

1 cup diced tomatoes
½ cup toasted walnuts
½ cup chopped cucumbers
¼ cup chopped olives
¼ cup chopped red onion
1 tablespoon lemon juice
1 clove garlic, minced
¼ teaspoon crushed dried oregano
1 package classic Greek marinade salad mix
12-ounces halibut or cod fillets or steaks
Salt and pepper
6 10-inch flour tortillas

For salsa, in medium bowl, combine tomatoes, walnuts, cucumbers, olives, onion, lemon juice, garlic, and oregano. Cover and let stand 15-30 minutes to blend flavors.

Meanwhile, preheat broiler. Place lettuce mixture from salad mix into large bowl. Open Greek marinade packet; measure 1 tablespoon of marinade to small bowl. Add remaining marinade to salad bowl.

Arrange fish on a lightly oiled broiler pan; brush reserved tablespoon marinade over fish. Broil 4 inches from heat for 7-10 minutes, or until fish flakes easily when tested with fork.

Break halibut into bite-sized flakes; add to salad mixture and toss gently to combine.

To assemble each wrap, spoon a cup of salad mixture onto center of tortilla; top with salsa. Fold in sides of tortilla over filling; roll up burrito-style. Cut each wrap crosswise to serve. Pass remaining salsa.

FOUR-FRUIT SLUSH

2 cups pineapple juice
¾ cup frozen orange juice concentrate, thawed
1 medium banana
1 cup frozen unsweetened peach slices
5 cups carbonated water
Lemon-lime carbonated beverage or ginger ale, chilled

In a blender container, combine first four ingredients. Blend until smooth. Pour into 2-quart baking dish. Cover; freeze 3 to 5 hours or until firm. To serve, let stand at room temperature 30 minutes. Scrape surface of mixture to form slush. Fill glasses half full with slush. Add carbonated beverage.

Makes 10 to 12 servings.

ZESTY STEAMED CARROTS AND RED POTATOES

1 pound unpeeled red potatoes
3 to 4 medium carrots, peeled, sliced diagonally
2 tablespoons chopped green onion
2 tableaspoons chopped parsley
1 tablespoon butter, melted
1 teaspoon Dijon mustard
Salt, optional
Pepper, to taste

Place a steamer rack in 4-quart saucepan over one inch water (water should not touch bottom of rack). Bring water to boil. Arrange potato slices in bottom of steamer. Cover and steam for 10 minutes. Add carrot slices; cover and steam until vegetables are just tender, about 7 to 10 minutes longer. Remove vegetables to serving bowl. Add remaining ingredients; toss gently to coat evenly.

Cook's Question

ANSWER — Dale wanted a recipe for rye bread with caraway seeds. Thanks to Dorothy Stoms, Deerfield, N.J., for sending a recipe from Pillsbury's Bake-Off. It is a good, old-fashioned bread with hint of caraway or anise. The secret to moistness is buttermilk. She writes for delicious caraway rye breads, substitute caraway seed for anise seed.

Scandinavian Rye Bread

3 cups rye flour
⅓ cup firmly packed brown sugar
3 teaspoons salt
1 tablespoon grated orange peel
1 teaspoon caraway seed or anise seed
½ teaspoon baking soda
2 packages active dry yeast
1 cup buttermilk or sour milk
¼ cup shortening
1 cup warm water
3 to 3½ cups all-purpose flour

In large mixer bowl, combine rye flour, brown sugar, salt, orange peel, caraway seed, baking soda, and dry yeast.

In saucepan, heat buttermilk, molasses, and shortening until buttermilk is warm.

Shortening does not need to melt. Add warm water and buttermilk mixture to rye flour mixture. Blend at lowest speed until moistened, beat 3 minutes at medium speed. By hand, stir in flour to form a stiff dough. Knead on floured surface until smooth and elastic; about 5 minutes. Place in greased bowl, turning to grease top. Cover; let rise in warm place until light and doubled in size, 1 to 1½ hours.

Punch down dough. Shape into two round loaves. Place on opposite corners of greased cookie sheet. Cover; let rise in warm place until doubled in size, about one hour. Bake at 350 degrees for 45 to 50 minutes or until loaf is a deep golden brown.

CORRECTION — In the Feb. 12 issue, the recipe for Sand Castle Brownies did not include the amount vegetable oil needed. Here is the correct recipe from Pat Elligson, Millers, Md.

Sand Castle Brownies

⅓ cup chopped nuts
½ cup semi-sweet chocolate chips
⅓ cup flaked coconut
⅔ cup packed brown sugar
¾ cup granulated sugar
⅓ cup baking cocoa
1½ cups flour

In a one-quart container, layer ingredients in order given, packing well between each layer. Cover and store in a cool, dry place for up to six months.

To bake, place contents of container in mixing bowl and mix well.

Add the following:
2 eggs, beaten
⅔ cup vegetable oil
1 teaspoon vanilla

Mix well. Spread into greased 8-inch square baking pan. Bake at 350 degrees for 30 minutes. Cool on wire rack.

Note: this makes a nice gift. Give container with instructions for final ingredients attached.

ANSWER — Donna Beyerbach, Oakdale, wanted to know how to make garlic powder from homegrown garlic bulbs. Thanks to Audrey Minns who sent directions for both garlic and onion powders.

Onion Or Garlic Powder

Mince onion or garlic and completely dehydrate it. (It must be very dry like instant minced onion or garlic purchased in a store). Put dried minced onion or garlic in blender or food processor container and whirl until powdered; or crush to a powder in a mortar and pestle. One tablespoon of homemade onion powder equals 2 tablespoons dried minced onions, which equal one medium onion. A scant ¼ teaspoon of homemade garlic powder equals one medium clove.

For onion or garlic salt, mix together 2 tablespoons onion or garlic powder with ¼ cup saltstore in a salt shaker. Make only small amounts of this to retain flavor.

Pa. Jersey Queen Candidates Sought

LIBERTY (Tioga Co.)–Are you a young lady between the ages of 15 and 19 who just loves Jersey cows? Now you have the opportunity to represent all the Jersey breeders in Pennsylvania as the 2000 Pennsylvania Jersey Queen.

The new queen will be crowned at the Pennsylvania Jersey Cattle Club Annual Meeting, March 31 and April 1, in Mercer. Throughout her reign, she will attend Jersey functions across Pennsylvania and be Pennsylvania's official representative in the National Jersey Jug Queen Contest held in Louisville, KY in November.

Applicants must own one or more Jersey projects or be the daughter of a Pennsylvania Jersey breeder to be eligible to compete. The applicant or the family must also be a member of the Pa. Jersey Cattle Association.

Applications are available from Pat Rassau, youth program coordinator, 473 Monroe Road, Sarver, PA 16055, Phone (724) 353-9681 and are due by March 1.

The queen contest will be held in conjunction with the junior recognition program Friday, March 31.

Pennsylvania Teen Second Runner-Up In Make It Yourself With Wool National Competition

Gay Brownlee
Somerset Co. Correspondent

IRWIN (Somerset Co.)–A Westmoreland County teenager was second runner-up in the Make It Yourself With Wool (MIYWW) National Competition junior division title. The event was January 13–15.

Erin Stennett, 17, from Irwin, constructed a slacks, jacket, and top ensemble that won approval from the judges.

Last Oct. 16 in Johnstown, Stennett had won the junior division title in the Pennsylvania MIYWW Competition. The outfit was also a state-winning 4-H project.

"The National Wool Competition was more competitive than 4-H," she said. "They had some amazing outfits."

Sarah Flannery, Sipesville, Somerset County, represented the senior division, but did not win at Nationals.

Among her awards, Stennett received a sewing machine from Brother International; $175 Savings Bond from Drake Livestock, Windsor, Color., a sewing basket from Prym-Dritz; and fabric from Woolrich, Inc.

MIYWW National Competition is held by the American Sheep Industry Women to promote wool for sewing, knitting and crocheting fashionable garments. Wool is a natural fiber that helps to regulate the body temperature in warm or cool times. It is versatile, wearable, durable and resists flaming naturally.

"This is my first year in Make It Yourself With Wool," said Stennett, who is a Norwin High School junior and 8-year member of the Hempfield Vogues 4-H Club.

"My one 4-H leader, Sue VanHorn, knew about it and told me I should enter," she said.

The pattern she selected, in reality, did not seem a difficulty project for Stennett's experience, despite its being considered advanced, she said.

"I don't think anything will be too hard anymore," she commented

There was extensive seam detail involved to create the smartly-styled and unusual jacket. It called for small abstract patches to be cut out and pieced together

In 100-percent wool felt, the dark purple jacket was patterned with a collar, collar band, dropped shoulders, insets, pockets, self-fringe, and long sleeves.

Side pockets, back darts, a waistband with carrier and front fly closure, were featured in the slacks.

The rosy-colored wool crepe top, she reported, tended to bubble up every time she tackled its different diagonal seams. Fitting it for her tall figure was achieved only by uninterrupted concentration. Still, to pin and repin the troublesome areas, she confessed the extra fingers of a 4-H leader were needed.

"I (usually) don't let anybody help me," she said. "If they try to talk to me I would rather be left alone. It's like 'Don't ask me questions, I'll ask you,'" she said. "I want to stay focused."

Besides a long, fringed scarf that utilized leftover slacks fabric, Stennett also designed a flat shoulder bag, braiding a strap

(Turn to Page B15)

Erin Stennett holds one of four prizes she received as second runner-up at the Make It Yourself With Wool National Competition–fabric from Woolrich, Inc. She also won a sewing machine, savings bond and sewing basket.

Millmont Farmer Keeps Busy Schedule To Maintain Successful Dairy

JAYNE SEBRIGHT
Lancaster Farming Staff

MILLMONT (Union Co.) — Every morning Joseph Snyder of Millmont gets up at 5:30 a.m. to help his wife Annette and son Joe, Jr., with the morning milking. Then he gets in his mini-van and begins his full-time job as an ABS technician.

In the evening, he typically doesn't finish with the chores until 9 p.m. During May and June, he might work as late as 11 p.m. some evenings.

He does this seven days a week, working more than 100 hours a week. And he does it with a smile on his face and a tremendous sense of humor.

Why does he work so hard? Because, like most dairymen, farming is in his blood.

"I was born into farming," said Snyder. "Even though it's a lot of hard work, a farm is a good place to raise a family. There isn't much free time. But then that keeps us out of trouble."

The Snyders milk 63 Holstein cows and raise about 60 heifers on their 273-acre farm, where Joseph has lived ever since he was born. In 1978, Joseph and Annette purchased the farm from his parents.

With Joseph working away from the farm, Annette and Joe Jr. handle most of the milking. Joe Jr. also takes care of feeding the cows.

The Snyder's oldest daughter Chris Kauffman also helps out on the farm, feeding calves and heifers, keeping the feed troughs clean, and helping with the morning milking. She and her husband Donny have two children, Kayleene and Colton, who both enjoy visiting the farm.

Joseph started relief breeding for ABS in 1995, mainly to help fund his youngest daughter Jennifer's college education. Jennifer now works for a pharmaceutical company in Philadelphia. In 1997, Joseph became a full-time A.I. technician.

The Snyders have won numerous awards for the way they manage their herd, which includes maintaining a rolling somatic cell count of about 63,000.

In 1999, they traveled to Madison, Wi., for the World Dairy Expo, where they received the National Dairy Quality Award. This prestigious award is only given to one farm in the entire nation each year.

"That was the first time we ever went to the World Dairy Expo," said Snyder. "And the best thing about the trip was that it was paid for, so it didn't take anything out of our pockets."

Their herd averages 23,181 pounds on DHIA, with .869 pounds fat and 774 pounds protein. They attribute their low somatic cell count to carefully monitoring their herd.

"When we get the DHIA records each month, the first thing we check is what our somatic cell count was for the month," said Snyder. "Then we flip the report over to the back, and if we don't have any high SCC cows, we know we did a good job."

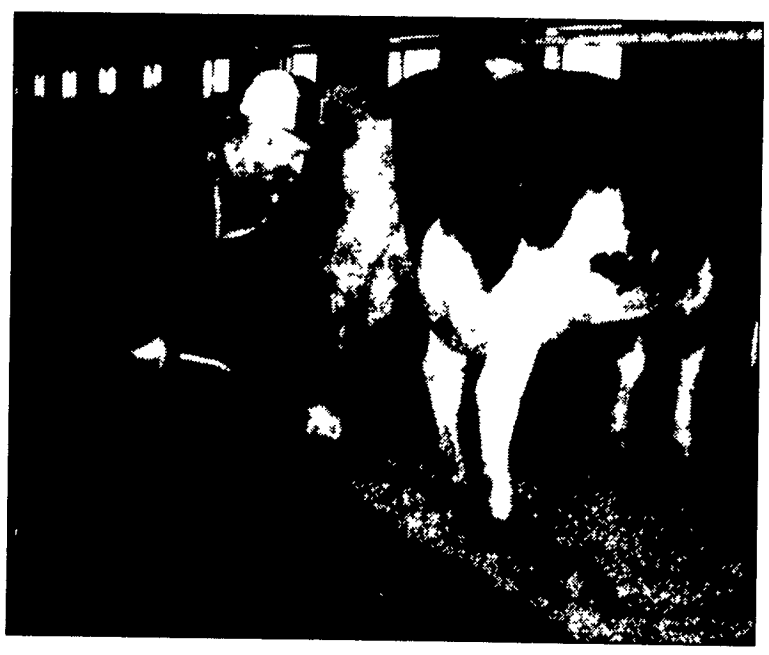
If the Snyders see a cow's linear score approaching four, they take action. In December, they treated two high SCC cows after they saw their DHIA report.

"When I looked at the fact that the one cow milked 111 pounds in November and only 78 pounds in December, I could tell that high somatic cell count was robbing me of some milk," said Snyder. "But then, after treating her, that cow's somatic cell count dropped to .4 and her milk production jumped back to 111 pounds in January."

The other cow dropped to a linear score of 0 in January after treatment.

Annette and Joseph show off an article published by Dairy Farmers of America on their nationally-recognized low somatic cell herd.

Pre- and post-dipping cows is a big part of keeping somatic cell counts low on the Snyder farm. Annette fills the dip cups up to make sure they're ready for each milking.



The Snyders scrap their tie stalls out several times a day to keep the cows as clean and dry as possible, keeping bacteria away from the cows' udders.

Joseph closely monitors his herd's production and somatic cell count because they both have a tremendous impact on the bottom line.

"When you find a high somatic cell cow, you can either ignore the problem or fix it," said Snyder. "If you ignore it, it can cost you the bonus from your cooperative. It can also cost you milk production."

According to Snyder, if his somatic cell count was to go over 100,000, his premium from his milk cooperative, Dairy Farmers of America, would fall from 55 cents to 35 cents.

"When you figure 100,000 pounds of milk produced in a month at a rate of 20 cents less, that is $200 dollars in lost profit for that month." And that doesn't count the lost profits due to the drop in milk production caused by high somatic cell counts.

In the barn, the Snyders closely monitor their cows for any abnormalities in the udder or in the milk when they strip them out before milking. Each cow gets stripped four to six times before milking. They also use individual towels to prevent from spreading infection. All milking help must wear latex gloves when they milk, and the cows are pre- and post-dipped with a solution from ABS.

"If we see a cow with a swollen udder or anything in the milk that looks suspicious, we use the CMT paddle to check them out," said Snyder. "If she has subclinical mastitis, we take a sample, identify it, and freeze it."

The Snyders will hold the infected cow's milk from the milk tank and start some type of treatment immediately. If the treatment doesn't work to clear up the infection, then they can take the frozen sample to the veterinarian.

"Within 24 hours, the vet can identify what bug is causing the problem," said Snyder. "Then his diagnosis will determine the appropriate treatment."

From experience, the Snyders have found that treating cows six days works best.

"I've found in the past that, if you treat a cow three or four days, by the time their milk is good the mastitis usually flares up again," said Snyder. "That's where the CMT paddle really comes into play. You should monitor that infection closely."

Snyder encourages other farmers to maintain low somatic cell counts through the following suggestions:

1) Cows should be kept as clean and as dry as possible.

2) Farmers should work closely with their veterinarians

Joseph Jr. strips the cows out several times before milking to make sure no abnormalities show up in the milk. On the Snyder farm, latex gloves are a must when milking.

Food for Profit Seminars To Be Held By Penn State

BEAVER (Beaver Co)–Have you considered opening a home based food business, but aren't sure how to get started? Penn State Cooperative Extension is conducting a seminar for those who own or who are considering opening up a home-based food business.

Two seminars will be held from 8:30 a.m. to 4 p.m. at two different sites. You can choose to attend either the session in Cranberry Township conducted at the Butler County Community College on Tuesday, Feb. 22, 2000 or the one in Indiana County at Aging Services Inc., Oak Place Community Center, Indiana on Thursday, February 24, 2000. The cost of the program is $49.00.

Workshops will address what it's like to own a food business, developing a game plan, marketing and pricing your product, laws and regulations required of a home-based food business, and food handling and safety issues.

For more information, call your local Cooperative Extension Office at (724) 774-3003.

New York Farm Show Set Next Week

SYRACUSE, NY–The 15th annual New York Farm Show promises to be winter's biggest event for farmers. The Northeast's largest indoor farm show brings some 400 agribusinesses, in five buildings, to the New York State Fairgrounds, Feb. 24–26. Show hours Thursday through Saturday are 8:30 a.m. to 4 p.m. The New York Farm Show is one-stop shopping at its best. Want to know what's new in milking equipment and parlor design? The New York Farm Show will show you.

Representatives from major equipment manufacturers can explain all there is to know about "iron."

What about new computer software for cropping, production and accounting? You'll find that, too.

"New York Farm Show is a great opportunity to see different manufacturers and compare what they have to offer," says Scott Grigor, farm show manager. "Farmers can find out what's happening in chemicals, equipment and services. It's one-stop shopping at its best."

Discover software packages to use for financial and production records, advantages of yield monitors and global positioning and advancements in corn hybrids and crop protectants.

In addition, New York Farm Show hosts special farm health and safety displays and a captivating array of antique tractors and farm toys.

New York Farm Show is sponsored by the Northeast Equipment Dealers Association and American Agriculturist Magazine. Tickets are available free from New York State farm equipment dealers or by writing New York Farm Show, P.O. Box 3470, Syracuse, NY 13220. Include a self-addressed, stamped legal envelope with your request.

Training For Child Care Providers

W. PITTSTON (Luzerne Co.) –Penn State Cooperative Extension of Luzerne County in cooperation with the NE Regional Pennsylvania Department of Health is sponsoring a two-hour training for child care providers. Cooperative Extension, Luzerne County is the approved trainer for the Department of Public Welfare.

"Improving Nutrition and Managing Food Allergies in Childcare Settings" workshop will be held on Thursday, February 24, from 7:00–9:00 p.m. at the Penn State Cooperative Extension Office, 16 Luzerne Avenue Suite 200 in West Pittston. Participants will receive parent handouts and lesson plans.

All attending will receive 2 credit hours for Registered Child Care Providers for each session. The cost of each program is $5.00, which includes handouts. Registration deadline is February 21, 2000.

According to MIYWW rules, only 100-percent wool or a blend with 60-percent wool in it is acceptable.

Entrants are required to attach a swatch of fabric when they mail an application to the state directors. These are later available to the panel of judges.

Directors for the Pennsylvania MIYWW are Jodell Antram, Somerset, and Peggy Black, Boswell.

Antram reported that the Pennsylvania Sheep and Wool Growers Association with the Pa. Department of Agriculture, contributed to transportation of the contestants to Denver.

Persons of any age may enter MIYWW. The four divisions are preteen, junior, senior, and adult.

The preteen winner doesn't advance. The adult winner is judged at Nationals by submitting a photograph.

"It got a little homesick," admitted Stennett, "but it was a good experience. They don't have Eat'N Parks."

A Kansas girl won, followed by the girl from Oklahoma. By coincidence, Stennett and her Kansas counterpart were roommates. "As soon as I saw the girl in my room, I knew she was going to win." said the runner-up.

Antram said some 32 girls were in junior division competition and 29 were in senior competition.

With her husband, David Antram, Jodell accompanied the Pennsylvania winners to Denver.

Stennett is Diane Carson's daughter. The teenager also sews with her grandmother, Loretta Carson, who for the last five years has been a 4-H leader.

Consuming Thoughts

Penn State Extension Home Economist For Berks Co.

Wouldn't it be nice to open the front door on a cold winter evening and be greeted by the inviting smells of beef stroganoff or turkey Creole. These smells can be a diner's dream come true if you learn to use your slow cooker properly.

Winter is not the only time a slow cooker is useful. In the summer, using this small appliance can avoid introducing heat from a hot oven. At any time of year, a slow cooker can make life a little more convenient because by planning ahead, you save time later. And it takes less electricity to use a slow cooker rather than an oven.

Many consumers ask if slow cookers are safe? Yes, the USDA has stated that the direct heat from the pot, the length of cooking time, and the steam created by a tightly covered container increases the temperature quickly and makes slow cooking a safe process. The low heat helps less expensive, leaner cuts of meat become tender and shrink less.

It's important to begin with a clean cooker, clean utensils and a clean work area Wash hands before and during food preparation

Keep perishable foods refrigerated until preparation time. If you cut up meat and vegetables in advance, store them separately in the refrigerator The slow cooker may take several hours to reach a safe, bacteria-killing temperature Constant refrigeration assures that bacteria, which multiply rapidly at room temperature, won't get a "head start" during the first few hours of cooking.

Always defrost meat or poultry before putting it into a slow cooker. Choose to make foods with a high moisture content such as chili, soup, stew, or spaghetti sauce.

Cut food into chunks or small pieces to ensure thorough cooking. Do not use the slow cooker for large pieces like a roast or whole chicken because the food will cook so slowly it could remain in the bacterial "danger zone" too long.

Fill the cooker no less than half full and no more than two-thirds full. Vegetables cook slower than meat and poultry in a slow cooker so if using them, put vegetables in first, at the bottom and around sides of the utensil. Then add meat and cover the food with liquid such as broth, water or barbecue sauce. Keep the lid in place, removing only to stir the food or check for doneness.

Most cookers have two or more settings. Foods take different times to cook depending upon the setting used. Certainly, foods will cook faster on high than on low. However, for all-day cooking or for less-tender cuts, you may want to use the low setting. If possible, turn the cooker on the highest setting for the first hour of cooking time and then to low or the setting called for in your recipe. However, it's safe to cook foods on low the entire time–if you're leaving for work, for example, and, preparation time is limited.

While food is cooking and once it's done, food will stay safe as long as the cooker is operating.

If you are not at home during the entire slow-cooking process and the power goes out, throw away the food even if it looks done.

If you are at home, finish cooking the ingredients immediately by some other means: a gas stove, the outdoor grill, or at a house where the power is on. When you are at home, and if the food was completely cooked before the power went out, the food should remain safe up to two hours in the cooker with the power off.

Store leftovers in shallow covered containers and refrigerate within two hours after cooking is finished. Reheating leftovers in a slow cooker is not recommended. However, cooked foods can be brought to steaming (165°F) on the stove top or in a microwave oven and then put into a preheated slow cooker to keep hot for serving.

For additional food safety information about meat, poultry or eggs, call the toll-free USDA Meat and Poultry Hotline at 1-800-535-4555. It is staffed by home economists from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. year round An extensive selection of food safety recordings can be heard 24 hours a day using a touch-tone phone.

Millmont Farmer

3) The herd must have an excellent dry cow program. "Don't just let the cows out on pasture and forget about them," said Snyder. "Make sure you keep them clean and are giving them the nutrition they need."

4) The feeding program for the entire herd should be well monitored and "up to snuff."

5) Milking system should be checked out every six months. Inflations should be changed according to the manufacturer's recommendations.

The Snyders also give their cows MuSe (selenium) shots and J5 vaccinations when they dry off and when they freshen.

"The J5 vaccination works like a flu shot," said Snyder. "It may not prevent the cow from getting mastitis, but it keeps her from getting it really bad."

The J5 shot is given right when the cow begins leaking milk and showing signs of freshening. "We want to make sure she has it when she's at her highest level of stress," said Snyder.

"A low somatic cell count is something you really have to work hard to maintain," said Snyder. "It takes good management and some extra time in the barn. But it's worth it."

The Snyders also have a Johnes-free herd. "We tested free for Johnes the last two years and are testing again in March," said Snyder. "If that test comes back Johnes free, that we will be a certified Johnes-free herd."

With a cull rate that stays around 10 to 12 percent, the Snyders have sold some of their heifers as dairy replacements for other herds. "Once were certified Johnes-free, we hope to sell even more replacements," said Snyder.

Snyder attributes the low cull rate to corrective breeding. "We try to maintain a higher standard of type and good udders on our cows so they stay in the herd longer."

Although Snyder farms as a way of life, not just to make a living, he is concerned about the current milk prices. While visiting area farms as an ABS technician, Snyder has heard a lot of farmers talking about the current low milk prices. He has even seen farmers protesting at area milk plants.

"When I took over my father's farm in 1978, I never expected milk prices to be as low now as they were then," said Snyder.

"Consumers deserve a quality product, and lower somatic cell creates a better product," said Snyder.

Annette handles the financial end of managing the dairy operation. Joseph keeps track of the herd, including monitoring the breeding records, keeping the calf books up to date, registering new animals, and monitoring overall herd health and production.

They work together closely on the farm and feel fortunate to have their children involved in the farm. While Joseph likes to spend what little spare time he has fishing and hunting, Annette enjoys sewing and reading. But they both treasure the time they can spend with their two grandchildren.

Snyder says his energy and enthusiasm for farming comes from his desire to keep the farm that his father worked so hard for all his life. "When you want something really bad, you would do anything to keep it going," said Snyder.

Through maintaining good production, ideal herd health, and excellent somatic cell counts, the Snyders hope their dairy will continue to succeed for many years to come.

14th Annual Lancaster County 4-H Benefit Auction

LANCASTER (Lancaster Co.) –The 14th Annual 4-H Benefit Auction will take place on Saturday, February 19th, beginning at 9:30 a.m., in the Farm and Home Center Auditorium, 1383 Arcadia Road, Lancaster.

The auction will feature items including Kellogg's cereal, animal and pet products, Winross trucks, Breyer models, live plants, cook books, tools and much more! A few special items include a potted spring daffodil arrangement from The Olde Millhouse Shoppes, a photograph signed by Penn State Football Coach Joe Paterno, and signed and numbered prints of Lancaster County sites. Numerous gift certificates for merchandise and area services will also be sold.

Food items will be sold throughout the day by participants of the 4-H Exchange Program. Proceeds from the auction will benefit the county's 4-H program, which involves nearly 4,000 youth, ages 8-19, in "learn-by-doing" 4-H projects and emphasizes the development of life skills. The program is also fortunate to have the support of over 500 adult and teen volunteer leaders. Monies raised will be used towards the purchase of educational materials, entry fees to events, transportation costs, volunteer leader support, and other 4-H expenses.

Gift certificates to be sold for services and merchandise include: The Village Greens, The Amish Village, The Castle Roller Skating, Country Table Restaurant, Lancaster Archery Supply, Hoss's, Dutch Apple Dinner Theatre, Esbenshade Turkey Farm, and Fulton Opera House. Tickets for the Strasburg Rail Road, Hershey Bears Hockey, Rainbow Dinner Theatre, and Sight & Sound performance of "Noah" will also be available.

To receive a complete list of sale items or make a donation for the auction, contact the Lancaster County Cooperative Extension office at 717-394-6851.

4-H HAPPENINGS

York County 4-H Benefit Auction

The annual York County 4-H Benefit Auction will be Friday, March 19, at the York County 4-H Center near Bair.

The auction will begin at 5 p.m.

Continued this year will be prize-winning desserts and club theme baskets. Also auctioned throughout the evening will be a wide variety of items. Many are donated items from local businesses. Collectibles (sports memorabilia, country music items, NASCAR items, Winross, Tonka and Ertel trucks), antiques, household, craft items are just a sampling of what is expected.

Gift certificates for dining spots, forms of entertainment, and other recreation and service-related businesses will be available through a silent auction.

Children will have an opportunity to bid at their own auction of child-pleasing items. Part of the tradition of the 4-H Auction is the great homemade soups, sandwiches, and baked goods. So don't eat dinner at home. Bring your family to the auction for dinner! Public is invited to attend.

New on Saturday morning, March 18, will be a Farm Consignment Sale. Wanted for consignment are farm equipment, tools, supplies, feed, straw, livestock, etc. The auctioneer is donating his services, so the commission benefits the York County 4-H. For more information about the consignment sale, call (717) 292-2198.

The proceeds from the auctions benefit the York County 4-H Center.

For details about the auction, donations or 4-H involvement, contact Penn State Cooperative Extension at (717) 840-7408.

You ask You answer

This column is for readers who have questions but don't know who to ask for answers.

"You Ask—You Answer" is for non-cooking questions. When a reader sends in a question, it will be printed in the paper. Readers who know the answer are asked to respond by mailing the answer, which will then be printed in the paper.

Questions and Answers to this column should be addressed to You Ask—You Answer, Lancaster Farming, P.O. Box 609, Ephrata, PA 17522. Attention: Lou Ann Good.

Or, you may e-mail questions and answers to lgood.eph@lnpnews.com

Please clarify what question you are answering when responding.

Do not send a self-addressed, stamped envelope for a reply. If we receive the answer, we will publish it as soon as possible. Please include your phone number because we sometimes need to contact the person to clarify details. We will not publish your phone number unless you request it.

QUESTION — Constance Becker, Cato, N.Y., is trying to locate replacement wire bales for old-style glass top canning jars in both regular and wide-mouth sizes. Anyone know of a supplier?

QUESTION — Kenneth Keister, Middleburg, wants a home use family-sized milk pasteurizer. Write to him at R.4, Box 140, Middleburg, PA 17842.

QUESTION - Tony Knipp of Blooming Grove, NY, is looking for a Ertl Divio Truck, Harrisburg Dairy Show issue. If you have one, please call (914) 496-6841.

QUESTION - Lisa Weaver, Dillsburg, is looking for someone who will give loom weaving lessons. She is interested in learning to weave rag rugs and other items. She also wants lessons in sectional warping. Please write to Lisa at 529 West Siddonsburg Road, Dillsburg, PA 17019.

QUESTION - Mrs. Sam Van Orden of Catskill, NY, wants a pattern for a stuffed toy cow, so she can make a Brown Swiss cow for her granddaughter. Her address is 188 Embought Road, Catskill, NY 12414.

QUESTION - Jakes Woodturnings is looking for the "inside gut" or screw down part of an old piano stool. He would take more than one if they can be found.

QUESTION - A Lancaster County resident has a 1908 Ingelnook cookbook published by the Bretheren church Ingelnook magazine. This cookbook contains recipes from Lancaster Countains during that time. Anyone intersted should call (717) 336-5696.

QUESTION - Julie Shelley of Landisburg is looking for a retailer or mail order house in the Perry/Cumberland County area.

QUESTION - Marion Capp, Mechanicsburg, wants to know where she can buy a videotape of the old Don Knots movie, "The Incredible Mr. Lempit." It's about a man who turns into a fish and helps the U.S. Navy.

QUESTION - Barry Johnson of Bloxom, VA, wants to know where the show is that has all kinds of chicken and fowl. Martha Stewart had it on one of her shows, and she said it was held in Pennsylvania.

QUESTION - C. Becker, Cato, NY, wants to locate replacement wire bales for old-style glass top canning jars, in both regular and wide mouth sizes.

QUESTION - Daniel Young of Mohnton has 300 used auto tires that were used to weigh down trench silo covers. If you can use them, write to him at RD1, Box 1242, Mohnton, PA 19540.

QUESTION - Sara Newswanger, Narvon, wants to know of a seed catalog that has Love Me Begonia seeds, which are also called Christmas Begonia or Busy Lizzie. It is an old-time houseplant with a single pink flower on a cluster.

QUESTION — Elam Stoltzfus wants a used 12-quart White Mountain ice cream freezer. Write to him at R.2, Box 203, Loysville, PA 17047.

QUESTION — Christine Westerhole, 2424 Edgemore Ave. Easton, PA 18045, is looking for a local breeder or owner of unregistered Border collies and Australian Shepherds. She wants to buy a pup for a pet, not to breed or show.

QUESTION — Barbara Oldanteeks has a big old tin or steel roof on an old barn that has rusted. She does not have a lot of money to replace the roof and wants to know how to preserve the roof. Is there a coating that is better than others? Does the aluminum paint work well and will it keep it from rusting further? Any information would be appreciated.

QUESTION — Amy McBlane, Boyertown, is raising a dual breed chicken — buff orphingtons. Amy wants to know how old the males can become without caponizing or getting tough. If 13 weeks is the maximum, she wants to caponize them or needs someone to teach her how to do it. She has written information, but want hands-on experience.

QUESTION — Jean Kriebel, Harleysville, is looking for seeds or plants for yellow impatiens. Anyone know where she can find them.

QUESTION — A Schaefferstown family is looking for an old version of the "Candyland" game. Call (717) 949-2846.

QUESTION — Ruth Boshnaugle, 202 Sylvan Retreat Rd., Columbia, PA 17512, would like to know if anyone has a Helen Barth cassette tape they would be willing to part with?

QUESTION — Lois Sollenberger, 2136 Hillview Dr. Fayetteville, PA 17222, would like to find one or more copies of the little Golden books called "The Rag Man's Sneeze."

QUESTION — Susan Sensenig, Mount Joy, is looking for a white teddy bear dressed in blue with stars, moons, or a design that glows in the dark. These 12-inch bears had been sold in 1994, she thinks, by Furst McNess Co., Freeport, Il.

QUESTION — Ann Hochenbury is looking for a pattern for an Afghan called "The Night Before Christmas." The design is by Raymond Gustafan, photographed by Scott Little, and is a scenic portrayal of St. Nick's midnight ride, which captures many details mentioned in the poem. The central motif is the farewell scene, complete with miniature sleigh and eight tiny reindeer. The pattern appeared in the 1991 "Better Homes and Garden" magazine.

QUESTION — A reader wants to know where to find Iris bulbs that bloom more than once and the name of a mail-order catalog where they are available.

QUESTION — Mary Haubrick writes that she has a box of beautiful broken Fenton art glass that was the result of a wall-shelf breaking accident. A lot of the glassware was hand painted cranberry as well as other colors. The pieces were shattered so badly that they can not be repaired; however, the glass is still beautiful. She is looking for someone who works in mosaic glassware made with a type of grouting to transform the unfortunate disaster into a work of art. Contact Mary at 25435 Great Cove Rd., McConnellsburg, PA 17233.

QUESTION — The Enos B. Stoltzfus family would like a set of "Boxcar" children's books to borrow or buy at a reasonable price. The family does not have a phone, but their address is 119 Lower Valley Rd., Christiana, PA 17509.

ANSWER — Eva Marie Poliquin wanted a top rack to fit a 1963 Kitchen Aid portable dishwasher. If you have the model number, call Gilberts Appliances (610) 696-5300.

ANSWER — Eva Marie Poliquin wanted a laundry wringer. Thanks to a reader who wrote that the wringers are available at Lehman's Hardware, One Lehman Circle, P.O. Box 41, Kidron, Ohio 44636.

ANSWER — G. Sweitzer wanted information on converting gasoline engines to run on kerosene. Francis Tuoti, North Salem, N. Y. has lots of experience and would be happy to answer questions on the process. Call him at (914) 669-5020. Here is some of his information: Many old tractors in the 1920s were designed to run on both gasoline and keronsene. These were basically low-speed engines with low compression rations and long stroke relative to the cylinder bore or piston diameter. Most were started on gasoline (which vaporizes at lower temperature than kerosene and is therefore more combustible) and then switched to kerosene when the engine warmed up and was better able to vaporize the kerosene. If you believe the compression should be lowered, try using two-head gaskets instead of one. Problems encountered: Exhaust emmisions may tend to be smokey and smelly, spark plug fouling from carbon buildup, decreased power, poor throttle response, poor cold weather starting unless started with gasoline.

Southeast PA Organic Producers To Meet

BIRD-IN-HAND (Lancaster Co.)–Pennsylvania Certified Organic will hold a Southeast regional meeting on Tuesday and Wednesday, February 22 and 23, from 8:45 a.m. to 3 p.m., at Christ and Levi Miller's Farm, Bird-in-Hand. Keynote Speakers Klaas & Mary-Howell Martens, certified organic farmers from the Pen Yan area of New York, will do a team presentation about cultivation techniques as well as issues surrounding genetically modified organisms. The Martens spoke at a recent Acres USA conference in Minneapolis and have published articles on many organic farming topics.

Program, Tuesday
February 22

Members of PCO will present a panel discussion on organic certification and national standards. The panel will open the meeting each morning and will consist of various PCO members, including: Executive Director Leslie Zuck; President Michael Brownback of Spiral Path Farm, Loysville; Vice President Preston Boop of Briar Patch Farm, Mifflinburg; Standards Chair David Griffiths of Seven Stars Farm, Phoenixville; Certification Chair D. David Martin of Danda Farms, Manheim; Education Chair Jeff Moyer of the Rodale Institute, Kutztown; Livestock Chair Roman Stoltzfoos of Springwood Organic Farm, Kinzers; Materials Chair Alfred Walker; Inspectors Brian Magaro, Al Johnson and Lyn Garling.

Emily Brown-Rosen of the Organic Materials Review Institute (OMRI) will talk about what it is that OMRI does, what goes on in the review process, OMRI's consultation position to the USDA National Organic Standards Board. Brown-Rosen will answer questions about the materials review process.

Tim Bowser, Executive Director, Pennsylvania Association for Sustainable Agriculture, (PASA), will speak about keeping organic standards high in the certified organic process and the need to preserve the organic market as a true niche.

Dr. Hubert J. Karreman will present practical tips for barn situations. Dr. Karreman is a dairy practitioner in southeast Pennsylvania who specializes in working with organic herds, grazing herds and those who want to reduce reliance on antibiotics and hormones. He will speak about natural treatments for common barn conditions.

Dave Wise, Program Biologist for Ducks Unlimited & Chesapeake Bay Foundation, will talk about stream bank fencing and propagating and harvesting streamside plants for resale as a potentially profitable project for family farms.

Ned MacArthur, of Natural Dairy Products marketing under the brand Natural By Nature, is a distributor of certified organic dairy products. He will speak about organic dairies from the processor's point of view.

An evening social hour and informal reception with Klaas & Mary-Howell Martens is planned for 7–9 p.m. Tuesday.

Program, Wednesday
February 23

The PCO panel will focus on specific standards issues and questions, including crop rotations, dairy herd transition, requirements for manure application and buffer areas. This is an opportunity for PCO to hear your concerns and suggestions, and to answer questions about organic standards.

Klaas and Mary-Howell Martens will give their presentation Wednesday morning.

Dr. C. Edgar Sheaffer will talk about holistic issues facing farmers as they transition their herds into certified organic status. Dr. Sheaffer is a holistic veterinarian who started Clark Veterinary Clinic in Palmyra and has forged the way for homeopathic remedies to be used on a variety of large animal species, especially cattle and horses.

Dave Mattocks, President of The Fertrell Company, and will speak about issues of soil fertility on certified organic farms.

The meeting is open to all, however, seating and food is limited, so pre-registration is recommended. Cost is $15 for one day and $25 for both days, including hot buffet lunch. Pennsylvania Certified Organic is a non-profit educational organization that represents 450 members and certifies more than 200 organic farms, processors and handlers within the Commonwealth. For information on joining PCO, registering for the meeting or displaying your products or services, contact Leslie Zuck at PCO, 814-364-1344; fax 814-364-2330; email PaOrganic@aol.com.

Sponsors & Exhibitors

A number of organic agriculture-related businesses will have display tables and representatives available to discuss their products and services: Aaron Groff & Son; Aaron King Seeds; Ducks Unlimited/Chesapeake Bay Foundation; The Fertrell Company; Fisher & Thompson Pladot Mini-Dairy; Hess Farm Supply; Homestead Nutrition Inc.; I & J Manufacturing; Meadow Green Valley Inc.; McGeary Organics; Miller's Natural Foods; Northeast Nutri-Ag; Organic Unlimited; and Pennsylvania Association for Sustainable Agriculture.

Directions to the Miller's farm: From Route 30 or Route 340, turn north on N. Ronks Road in Bird-in-Hand. Follow to T and turn right onto Church Road. Make the next left onto Monterrey Road. Go over a small bridge and turn right at Miller's Natural Foods sign.

Registration Form

Please preregister so we can arrange for food and seating, which is limited. Walk-ins may be accepted is space allows, but might not be guaranteed meals.

Bull Performance Testing Results Announced

UNIVERSITY PARK (Centre Co.)–The PA Department of Agriculture's Meat Animal Evaluation Center announces the 84-day results of the Bull Performance Testing Program. We have 78 outstanding bulls on test this year. The group consists of 39 Angus, nine Polled Herefords, 28 Simmentals, one Charolais and one Limousin.

The 39 Angus have maintained a group average daily gain of 4.26 lbs per day through 84 days with a lifetime weight per day of age of 3.47 pounds. The top-gaining Angus bull is the T.C. Stockman 365 son owned by Ed Dunkelberger. The 5.77 lbs/day this bull recorded through 84 days is the 2nd highest gain overall breeds! The second fastest gaining Angus is the PS Traveler 351 614 son of Marlin and Steve Paul, who gained 5.46 lbs per day.

The top-gaining Polled Hereford bull is the SBF Royal Rancher son consigned by Shawn Eberly. This bull gained 4.76 lbs/day. The second-fastest gaining Polled Hereford is the MGM Renegade son owned by Steve and Jeff Reigel and he gained 4.64 pounds per day through the 84 days. The nine Polled Hereford bulls achieved an average daily gain of 4.17 pounds per day and a lifetime weight per day of age of 3.56 pounds per day.

The 28 Simmentals on test gained an average 3.98 pounds per day and maintained a lifetime weight per day of age of 3.53 pounds. The top gaining Simmental bull is the Lehman Lucky Buck 7049C son owned by John Myers. This bull recorded an ADG of 5.80 which is the highest ADG overall breeds. The second-fastest gaining Simmental was the bull consigned by Jack Herr. This STF Redition G7Z son gained 4.54 pounds per day on test.

The top-gaining Limousin bull is the Quail Run Black Ink son which gained 4.06 pounds per day and was consigned by Kevin Murphy. The top-gaining Charolais, consigned by Raymond Bratton, gained 4.19 pounds per day on test and is a son of BCF New Trend 992.P.

The bulls will all be weighed off test February 22, 2000. They will then have their final average daily gain, adjusted 365-day weight, frame score, and adjusted fat thickness calculated. The bulls will be scanned ultrasonically to determine fat thickness, and estimated loin eye areas. The bulls will undergo a comprehensive breeding soundness exam, including collections, and a semen evaluation. The bull must meet minimum requirements for structural soundness and breed character.

After all of the evaluations, approximately the top 75% of the bulls will be selected to be offered in PA's 27th Annual Performance Tested Bull Sale scheduled for 11:00 a.m., Friday, March 31, 2000. The bull sale is planned as a central part of PA's 11th Annual Beef Expo which runs March 30th through April 2nd at Penn State's Ag Arena. The Expo will have something for everyone. There will be educational displays, a large trade show, junior activities and shows, purebred Angus Shorthorn and Simmental sales, and great food.

For more information about the bulls on test, the PA Beef Expo, or to request bull sale catalogs, contact Glenn Eberly, Director, Meat Animal Evaluation Center, 651 Fox Hollow Rd., State College, PA 16803. Phone 814-238-2527 or 814-865-5857.

First Union Salutes Ag Industry At Agri-Education Seminar

LANCASTER (Lancaster Co.) –"Agriculture 2000" will be the forward-looking focus of the 19th annual First Union Agri-Education Seminar Thursday, Feb. 24, here at the Farm and Home Center.

According to Darvin Boyd, manager of First Union's Agri-Finance Department, First Union annual sponsors this seminar for members of the agricultural and agribusiness community to keep them informed of the changes and potential opportunities in the industry. The seminar will be conducted from 8:30 a.m. to 3 p.m

In Pennsylvania, agriculture is the number on industry, and Pennsylvania farms lead the way in the Northeast. According to Boyd, Pennsylvania agriculture led the Northeast with $4.14 billion in cash receipts and an additional $40 billion related economic activity. Agricultural business creates jobs for one out of every five Pennsylvanians.

The keynote speaker will be Marcia Z. Taylor, editor of Top Producer, Farm Journal Publishing's business magazine for executive farmers. Taylor will challenge attendees to "Don't Underestimate the Competition." Also appearing at the seminar for the first time will be G. David Orr and Ronald J. Hanson. Chief economist of First Union National Bank, Orr will share his economic forecast of "Optimism Tempered by Realism." Hanson is professor of agricultural economics at University of Nebraska and will look at "The Unspoken Words of a Family"

Dr. David M. Kohl, professor of agricultural economics and small business management at Virginia Tech and a past seminar presenter, will provide new insight in his talk, "Agrivisions in the New Millennium" John M Blanchfield, another previous participant and manager of agricultural banking and rural development for the American Bankers Association's federal legislative operations department, will outline "Federal Ag Policy Changes in 2000" H Louis Moore, professor of agricultural economics at Penn State University, will discuss "Agricultural Markets in 2000"

Other seminar speakers will be Jennifer Zimmerman, Lancaster County FFA president, and Sarah Boyd, 1999 Superior 4-H recipient in Lancaster County. Zimmerman is a senior at Ephrata High School. Boyd is a student at Millersville University.

For further information, contact First Union's Agri-Finance office in Lancaster at (717) 291-3519.

The Income Protection (IP) crop insurance program is designed to insure the producer against reductions in gross income from insurable reductions in yield or price. This policy pays when the harvested and appraised production, multiplied by the harvest price, are below the IP guarantee. IP projected prices are based on the average of the daily futures market closing prices for the insured crop during the month of February. IP uses the county yield index to adjust IP premium rates. The insurance is provided for an "Enterprise unit" that includes all acreage of the insured crop in the county in which the insured has an interest. IP forms a straightforward product for the protection of a percentage of revenue.

IP is only available for corn in Pennsylvania.

How IP Works?

The IP dollar guarantee per acre is calculated by multiplying the approved APH yeild times the Projected Price times the selected coverage level. The approved APH yield is calculated at the enterprise level (all acreage of the crop in the county). The Projected Price is determined from the commodity futures market contract prior to planting (as defined in the insurance policy). Coverage levels range between 50 and 75 percent for the IP policy. Producers may elect the catastrophic protection level and pay only the $60 administrative fee. No premium is due for the catastrophic protection level. For the 1999 and subsequent crop years, catastrophic risk protection equals 27½ percent of the approved yield times 100 percent of the Projected Price.

An insured's total guaranteed dollar amount of protection is the net acres of the insured crop (acres times share) in the county multiplied by the IP dollar guarantee per acre. Indemnities are due when the insured's share of production to count (harvested and appraised yields) multiplied by the Harvest Price (as defined in the insurance policy) is less than the IP guarantee. If the yield loss is offset by a price increase, or vice versa, no indemnity payment is paid.

IP Projected and Harvest Prices

Example 1.

Harvest Price ends up higher than the Projected Price — With a 57 Percent Production Loss.

Approved APH yield = 70 bushels per acre

Coverage Level = 65%

Projected Price = $2.20 per bushel

Harvest Price = $3 per bushel

Actual Production = 30 bushels per acre

Crop Value = Production to Count (times) Harvest Price - $90

Revenue Guarantee = Approved APH yield (times) Coverage Level (times) Projected Price

IP Indemnity (return to crop insurance coverage) = Revenue Guarantee - Crop Value $100.10-$90 = $10.10

In example 1, the large yield loss is partially offset by the increased price at harvest. The resulting crop value of $90 is still less than the Revenue Guarantee by $10.10, so an indemnity payment is made to the producer.

Example 2.

Harvest Price ends up lower than Projected Price - With a 34% Production Loss

Approved APH yield = 70 bushels per acre

Coverage Level = 65%

Projected Price = $2.20 per bushel

Harvest Price = $1.35 per bushel

Crop Value = Production to Count (times) Harvest Price = $62.10

Revenue Guarantee = Approved APH yield (times) Coverage Level (times) Projected Price

IP Indemnity (return to crop insurance coverage) = Revenue Guarantee — Crop Value $100.10 - $62.10 = $38

In example 2, a large drop in price combines with a small production loss to produce a calculated crop value of $62.10 and an IP indemnity payment of $38 per acre.

Excluded Events

Exclusions are the same as the MPCI policy. Additionally, coverage is not available for high-risk land.

Rating and Producer Subsidy

The rating method for Income Protection reflects historic yield variation and variation in gross income due uto yield and price movements during the crop year. The rating model includes the correlation of national prices and county yields. Income Protection premium rates are based upon the individual yield data reported, the relationship of each of those yields to the county average for that year, and the Projected Price level.

Since the subsidy is based on the value of the 50 percent Income Protection premium, individual premium subsidies may be more or less than would be paid for MPCI. On the average, the premium subsidy is expected to be about the same as for MPCI.

Important Facts

The IP plan guarantees revenues, as opposed to the yields backed by the CAT and MPCI. However, IP contains no feature for increasing revenue coverage if prices increase, or provisions for basic or optional units.

Where to purchase insurance?

This summary is for illustrative purposes only. Federally subsidized crop insurance policies are available from private insurance agents. A list of crop insurance agents is available at your USDA - FSA county office or by contacting John Berry at 610-391-9840.

Jennifer McWilliams, right, SUN Area dairy princess, gives the fourth grade students a tour of the milkhouse on the dairy farm tour.

Sun Area Dairy Princess Joins West Snyder Food For America Program

BEAVER SPRINGS (Snyder Co.)–In November, Jennifer McWilliams, SUN Area dairy princess, joined with the West Snyder FFA Chapter to present a Food For America program at Beaver Adams and West Beaver elementary schools.

The purpose of the program is to educate fourth grade students about the source of food in America. McWilliams, along with SUN Area Alternate Dairy Princess Sandy Opdyke, spent time explaining to the fourth grade students about how milk gets from the cow to the grocery store.

Various dairy products were also discussed with the students. Following the classroom presentation, all fourth grade students toured the dairy farm of Lester and Barb McWilliams in Beavertown.

Other West Snyder FFA members who participated in the program included Brandon Herman, Heather Hollenbach, Doug Hollenbach, Hannah Etzler, and Derek Fetterolf. These FFA members presented information on sheep, poultry, pigs, dairy foods, and beef. They also developed and played the "Wheel of Food" game with the elementary students. "Wheel of Food" is a game based on the TV game show "Wheel of Fortune," where all the questions are on the topic of the students' food.

ALUMINUM PORTABLE ELEVATORS

Safety Shield Removed For Display Purposes Only
(Set up and ready to go just mount optional motor and install shields)
Reinforced Frame

EXCLUSIVE Boot Guard with Agitator

- Heavy-service, belt-type guard attached to sturdy hinge on boot
- Guard rests on flights - movement of flights provides agitating action - keeps material or silage out of boot and moving up the elevator

Includes incline hopper, motor mount, and required belts. Set Up and Ready to Go - Just mount motor (not included) and install shields. Optional polywear liner protects pan - super-slick, self-lubricating liner prevents freezedown.. reduces chain stretching increases chain and pan life, cuts noise levels and lowers energy consumption by up to 30%

- Easy to handle - sturdily built
- Light weight - rust resistant - never needs painting
- Enclosed bottom trough for clean chain return and extra strength
- Take-up for chain at idler shaft - easily tightened without affecting drive adjustments
- Dropout hole with gate - helps prevent returning cobs and husks from jamming in boot end of elevator Allows returning cobs and husks to fall out before reaching boot Gate can be quickly closed when materials other than cob corn are being conveyed
- Plow-contour corded rubber flights designed for maximum efficiency, minimum ride-up

Reel Auggie = Results

The Reel Auggie Design provides a fluffy, more palatable ration that promotes feed consumption. When your cows consume more high quality feed, they'll produce more milk

MORE MILK IN THE TANK, THAT'S THE BOTTOM LINE!
To see results, ask for a Reel demonstration from your local Knight dealer today.

The 6100 Series Pull-Type Planters.

Precision farming starts with precision seed placement. And that's exactly what you'll get with White's 6100 Series. Its unique row units feature an exclusive air-metering system that's designed to singulate every seed. Low air pressure and edge-drop seed discs along with a short, gentle, 18" seed drop ensure precise seed placement for maximum germination.

Adaptable To Any Tillage Situation.

The 6100 Series is available in rigid and vertical fold frame models. A strong, welded-tongue design and massive 7" x 7" frame easily handles the demands of no-till and other planting practices.

This season, get the planter that places each seed where it'll grow the best — and perform the best. Stop by your AGCO® White Planter dealer today.

Pennsylvania FFA Members Attend National FFA Convention

Maria Trego
PA. FFA State Reporter

The celebration of FFA's 72nd year as an agricultural organization attracted more than 46,000 members, advisers, and guests Oct. 27-30 to the first National convention ever held in Louisville, Ky.

Pennsylvania was represented by more than 800 people from across the state.

During the four days of the convention, there was a wide array of attractions for all those people in attendance. A career show, general sessions, and concerts were a few of the exciting and memorable activities available to the members during the convention.

The FFA National Agricultural Career Show brought 349 exhibitors from all over the United States, Puerto Rico, Guam, and the Virgin Islands to expose members to agricultural careers, programs, and products.

MHS FFA Landscape Design Named Best In State

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.)–Even though it was January, Milton Hershey School (MHS) Juniors Brent Frick and Melissa Roy were busy planting tulips in a landscape project, which ultimately won "Best of Show" in a FFA landscape competition during the 2000 Pennsylvania State Farm Show.

The exhibit also received first place for best landscape design and best landscape blueprint.

Only eight of the many FFA groups from throughout the state who submitted landscape designs were selected to participate in the contest. The students constructed their landscapes indoors at the Farm Show Complex prior to the show's opening.

As the "Best of Show" winners, MHS students will represent the state of Pennsylvania and recreate their landscape at the Big E Conference, an agricultural exhibition for all of Northeastern United States. The event takes place later this year in Massachusetts.

While Brent and Melissa played major roles in the completion of the award-winning landscape, a number of other MHS students had a hand in the project.

"I believe the number of collaborative efforts made this project a real success," said MHS FFA adviser and horticulture teacher Chris Cassel. "Not only was this a very involved project, but this was also the first year our students participated."

Last school year, two seniors began work on the landscape design. Since the two students have graduated, Brent and Melissa took the lead on the project, finding support from fellow students and community professionals within the landscape industry.

Brent and Melissa met with community experts such as Ed Copenhaver of Stony Bridge Landscaping, Inc. to discuss suggestions for improving the design. The students also sought out supply donations for their landscape from area businesses.

In addition to collecting the donated items, the two students were responsible for securing the other materials needed for the design. Freshmen horticulture students assisted with this task by potting the tulips and daffodils used in the landscape.

Horticulture students weren't the only MHS students helping with the project. Earlier in the school year, MHS vocational drafting students transformed the hand-drawn design into a CADD document. The new document made altering the design less time consuming.

Milton Hershey School won "Best of Show" in a FFA landscape competition during the 2000 Pennsylvania State Farm Show.

The exhibit also received first place for best landscape design and best landscape blueprint.

Gehl Introduces Swing-Frame Disc Mower Conditioners

WEST BEND, Wis.–Gehl introduces two new acre-eating swing frame mower conditioners designed to deliver high volume cutting and conditioning with outstanding maneuverability.

Available in 15- and 18-foot cutting widths, these units easily slice through down and tangled crops or dense wet undergrowth. Cut crop is thoroughly processed for fast drying thanks to wide, machined intermeshing conditioning rolls.

Gehl's simple power transfer system has fewer components. That means more reliability and less maintenance. Transport is also easy thanks to a handy transport cart. It only takes a few minutes to attach the cart and rotate the unit for road travel.

Corn Hybrids Rank No. 1 In Performance Trials

LANCASTER (Lancaster Co.) –Three top-selling corn hybrids from Hoffman Seeds ranked as the highest yielding in their respective state yield trials conducted recently by three independent universities in the Northeast.

Hoffman Seeds, which markets Novartis NK® Brand corn hybrids, submitted NK® Brand N3030Bt, N58-D1, and N82-J6 for yield trials–earning the highest yielding performance from New York to Maryland in three of the key relative maturity areas.

"As shown by our ranking in these independent studies, we're meeting our goal to produce high-yielding, top-performing hybrids," said Fred M. Lepley, president, Hoffman Seeds. If the buying habits of growers are any indication, Hoffman Seeds is also at peak performance in the farmers' fields. In fact, farmers have made these NK® Brand corn hybrids among Hoffman's top sellers.

"We're pleased to know the results of these yield trials, which serve to reinforce the farmer's buying decision," said Lepley.

NK® Brand N58-D1 from Hoffman Seeds ranked first among the brands submitted by 15 companies participating in Zones 1 and 2 trials in the "Pennsylvania Commercial Hybrid Corn Test Report" conducted by the Cooperative Extension of the College of Agricultural Sciences, Penn State University. NK® Brand N3030Bt topped the "1999 New York Hybrid Corn Medium Early Maturity Performance Trials" conducted by the Cornell Cooperative Extension at Cornell University, and NK® Brand N82-J6 was the highest yielding hybrid in the "1999 Summary: Full Maturity Corn Hybrid Performance in Maryland" at the University of Maryland.

"Our success with all three hybrids points out the strength of the current Novartis research program," said Lepley. "Through extensive testing and research, what we bring to eastern corn growers are high-yielding hybrids that span areas of maturity from 90 to 118 days."

Nutrient Management Workshop March 6

BEDFORD (Bedford Co.)–Penn State Cooperative Extension will host a Nutrient Management Workshop: Managing Nutrients for Soil Fertility at the 4-H Center in Bedford March 6 from 10 a.m. to noon.

"Nutrient management is extremely important for farmers. They are balancing the amounts of nutrients applied to crop fields with the amounts of nutrients crops are utilizing," said Melanie Barkley, Bedford County extension agent. This in-depth workshop will cover the behavior and management of nitrogen, phosphorus and potassium for soil fertility. Another topic at the workshop is Evaluating Liming Materials. "Without the correct pH in the soil, nutrients may not be available for plants to use," said Barkley.

Workshop participants with Nutrient Management Certification will receive two continuing education credits toward their certification renewal. In addition, participants with a pesticide applicator's license will receive one core credit.

For more information you can contact Penn State Cooperative Extension Office in Bedford County at (814) 623-4800. Cost for the workshop is $5. The fee includes materials and refreshments.

Next-Generation Skid-Steer Loaders Improve Productivity, Operator Comfort

FARGO, N.D.–Bobcat® Ingersoll-Rand introduced its new Bobcat 863 and 873 G-Series skid-steer loaders with an advanced cab and instrumentation design, and improved operating power over previous models.

The G-Series design increases visibility, enhances operator comfort, improves performance, and offers value-added options, such as dual-mode auxiliary hydraulics and deluxe instrumentation. Melroe designed the G-Series to be more operator-friendly and efficient based on input from skid-steer loader users around the globe.

•873 model. The 873 features a new vertical-path lift arm design for better operator visibility, especially to the tires and rear corners of the machine. Compared to the previous F-Series model, the new 873 lift arm uses thicker steel and larger-diameter rear pivot pins to improve durability and decrease lift-arm side movement by 40 percent. It is powered by a 73-horsepower (HP) Deutz diesel engine.

The 873 G-Series loader employs a new "H-Frame" lift arm design that allows the hydraulic hoses to be placed beneath the lift arm hinge point for additional protection. Improved tilt cylinder and coupler plumbing results in only four hoses compared to eight hoses and four tubes on the 873 F-Series.

•Improved performance. For the first time, a high-flow auxiliary hydraulic option providing 29 gallons per minute (GPM) is available on the 873, expanding its application capabilities. Drive relief pressure on the 873 G-Series has been increased to 4,712 pounds per square inch (PSI) from 4,350 PSI on the F-Series for more axle torque and power.

Bobcat® Ingersoll-Rand introduced its new Bobcat 863 and 873 G-Series skid-steer loaders with an advanced cab and instrumentation design, and improved operating power over previous models.

•863 model. The new 863 G-Series loader is also powered by a 73 HP Deutz diesel engine. It offers optional high-flow auxiliary hydraulic output at 29 GPM, increased from 28 GPM on the previous model.

•Cab improvements. Nine different patents are pending on various cab and instrumentation features of the new G-Series. For example, the operator cab has a larger front opening for easier entry and exist as well as more head clearance inside. For added comfort, an optional, full-suspension seat adjusts to the operator's weight and size, and the seatbelt is mounted to the seat rather than the seat pan, so it moves with the operator. The new rear-pivot seat bar offers more room for larger operators as well as improved arm rests for comfortable all-day operation. A domed cab roof- rounded fore to aft and side to side-efficiently sheds water.

Other cab improvements include recessed headlights with a lens design that doubles light output in the work area, optional top and side windows that can be easily removed without tools for cleaning, and an optional contoured cab door that increases visibility and maximizes cab space. A new, high efficiency heating system features four directional-flow vents that rotate to direct air where it's most needed–and for added elbow room in the cab, the heater core and blower motor have been relocated behind the operator cab. Other optional amenities include a dome light and electrical power port (for such things as a cell phone), as well as an insulated cab for reduced noise.

•Instrument panels and gauges ease loader operation. The standard left-hand instrument panel includes electronic stepper-type sweep gauges for engine coolant temperature and fuel level. The digital engine hourmeter doubles as a glow-plug countdown timer and mini-information center for system diagnostics. The panel also includes switches for operating lights as well as optional bucket positioning and high-flow hydraulics. A dual-mode auxiliary hydraulics switch allows users to select between maximum-flow (instant on-off) and variable flow auxiliary hydraulics for more efficient operation of hydraulic attachments. An auxiliary pressure release button simultaneously shuts down the loader and relieves auxiliary hydraulic pressure to facilitate attachment hookup.

Front Mowers Designed For High-Production Work

NEW HOLLAND (Lancaster Co.)–Three new, compact, commercial front mowers, geared to high-production mowing, have been introduced by New Holland.

The new MC Series mowers range from 22 hp to 35 hp and are designed for greater productivity with more power, more maneuverability and more operator comfort.

All models feature a diesel engine and two-range hydrostatic transmission. They also have a multi-disc independent PTO clutch and wet disc brakes. The MC22 and MC28 are available in both 2WD and auto-4WD while the MC35 is available in auto-4WD only. When additional traction is needed, all 4WD models feature automatic 4WD engagement. And, a front-axle differential lock is standard equipment.

A low center of gravity makes MC Series mowers more stable, and their compact size makes them more maneuverable. A large, 13.3-gallon fuel tank allows all-day (10 hours) mowing without refueling.

Operator comfort was a primary factor in the design of these mowers. Noise and vibration have been reduced over previous models. A tilt and telescoping steering column adjusts to operator's requirements and a deluxe seat with flip-up arm rests provides greater comfort when mowing large areas. In response to customer requests, a power socket for a cell phone, radio or CD player is standard.

Routine service and maintenance is easy to perform. The one-piece hood tips rearward to provide complete and easy access to the engine area. Blade maintenance is easy because the deck can be flipped up for service without disconnecting the PTO shaft.

A number of mowers are available to meet customer needs.

$475 Million Targeted For Soybean, Oilseed Producers

LANCASTER (Lancaster Co.) –The 1999 Oilseed Program will provide $475 million for producers who planted 1999 crop of soybeans, flaxseed, sunflowers, safflower, rapeseed, mustard seed, canola, or crambe.

Congress recently authorized payments to producers under the Agriculture, Rural Development, Food and Drug Administration, and Related Agencies Appropriation Act, 2000.

Producers' payments will be based on the higher of the 1997 or 1998 planted acreage of each specific oilseed, or for new producers, the 1999 crop planted acreage, if that oilseed would have been otherwise eligible for a marketing assistance loan. Producers may use the higher of the county average yield or the producer's actual yields to determine payment quantity.

Acreage reports for oilseed may be accepted from producers who planted eligible oilseed in 1999 but did not report all their acreage of those oilseeds in 1997, 1998, or 1999. Acreage reports for this program purpose only may be accepted when producer provides acceptable evidence of the existence and disposition of the oilseed acreage such as seed receipts, aerial slides, custom harvesting, etc.

Only 1997, 1998, and 1999 oilseed acreage reports that have been filed by Feb. 18, 2000 will be accepted for the purpose of determining acreage for the oilseeds program. Late filed fees are not applicable for producers reporting oilseed acreage, if the acreage report will be used only for the purpose of this program.

At this time, application processing period has not been determined. Producers will be required to obtain, or currently have a conservation plan, for all farms they are operating. Crop reports are being accepted at the Lancaster County Farm Service Agency located at the Farm and Home Center, Lancaster.

Company Established To Develop Technologies Based On Penn State Patents

UNIVERSITY PARK (Centre Co.)–A new company, EIEICO Inc., has been established based on licenses to three patented Penn State inventions and plans to develop them into products for the meat animal and dairy industries.

The inventions, owned by Penn State Research Foundation (PSRF) were all made during research conducted by university faculty members or students who will receive a portion of any economic gain. PSRF will retain an equity interest in EIEICO (pronounced eeyii, eeyii coh). The company's investors and management will hold the remaining ownership interest.

Frank P. Slattery Jr., a private investor from the Philadelphia area, is forming EIEICO and serving as chairman of the board. Retired director, president and CEO of LFC Financial Corporation, a diversified financial services company, Slattery has successfully started companies based on technology developed at Princeton and Penn where he earned his undergraduate and law degrees, respectively. Slattery and co-investors are funding EIEICO with $3 million.

Joseph S. Duffey, founder and president of Compass Management Partners, a management and strategy consulting firm, is EIEICO president and CEO. Douglas L. Greger, one of the inventors, is chief technology officer. Greger was a Penn State graduate student when he made his invention. Until recently, he was a postgraduate researcher at the School of Veterinary Medicine, University of California in Davis, Calif.

Dr. Eva J. Pell, Penn State vice president for research and dean of the graduate school, said "This new model for technology transfer, in which related inventions are bundled into the same start up company, offers those who invest in EIEICO a higher probability of seeing a winner. It also aligns the interests of the inventors and the university with those of the financial and management shareholders."

Dr. Thomas J. Monahan, director of Penn State's Intellectual Property Office (IPO), explained that, like shareholders and management, the inventors will benefit from any economic gain from their inventions along with their academic colleges. However, the inventors won't have to become full-time entrepreneurs and spend much of their time looking for capital to commercialize their discoveries.

EIEICO will operate as a parent company and establish subsidiary companies for the licensed inventions. The three products and their inventors are a poultry feed withdrawal supplement to reduce the risk of meat contamination by microbial pathogens during processing developed by Dr. Regina Vasilatos-Younken, professor of poultry science, endocrine physiology and nutrition; a gel drug delivery system to more effectively manage farm animal reproduction invented by Dr. Daniel R. Deaver, professor of reproductive physiology, who is currently on leave of absence as director of life sciences at Advanced Inhalation Research (AIR) Inc. in Cambridge, Mass.; and a genetic marker for meat quality traits discovered by Doug Greger. Greger filed eight patent applications related to improvements in livestock production while he was a graduate student at Penn State.

Warren Extension Meets

YOUNGSVILLE (Warren Co.) –The joint annual meeting of the Penn State Cooperative Extension of Warren County and the Warren County Conservation District was recently conducted at the Holiday Inn, Warren.

Prior to the buffet luncheon an awards program was held.

The Cooperative Extension office presented two "Volunteer of Extension" awards to outstanding volunteers in Warren County. The first winner was Steven G. Hawkes, owner and consulting forester for Hawkes Woodland Management. Hawkes served on the Warren County Cooperative Extension board of directors for three years. He was elected vice president his first year in 1996 and then was elected president in 1997, a position he diligently served at for two years.

During his tenure on the board of directors, Hakes served on the office management committee and on the budget committee. Being a businessman and a citizen of the community, Hawkes is conscientious in the use of county, state, and federal funds to support the cooperative extension office. He has helped the office obtain new computers, a new printer, and remain at its present location at the Ag and Learning Center in Youngsville.

Hawkes is a member of the Tri-County Forestry Advisory Committee that assists extension agent Adam Downing with his forestry educational programming in Crawford, Erie, and Warren counties. Hawkes has served on this advisory committee since 1998.

He has also volunteered as a professional natural resource manager for a number of forestry programs for private woodland owners in northwestern Pennsylvania. When the dean of Penn State's College of Agricultural Sciences, Robert Steele, and the director of cooperative extension and outreach, Ted Alter, recently visited northwest Pennsylvania, Steve Hawkes discussed best management practices on a forest woodlot in Clarion County.

The second "Volunteer of Extension" award winner was Charles F. Sharp Jr. when the Warren County Cooperative Extension has problems with computers, scanner, printer, software, etc., the office calls on Charles Sharp.

Sharp is the husband of the Warren County Extension office administrative assistant, Joanne Sharp. Chuck has a great interest in all aspects of computer technology. He reads computer publications and listens intently to what other computer owners talk about. Then Sharp puts into practice all that he has learned about computers. He has performed many computer related tasks as a volunteer, saving the Warren County Extension office hundreds of dollars.

Penn State College of Agricultural Sciences service awards were presented to Rose Wolfe and James Cowden by David Rynd, northwest regional director for cooperative extension and outreach. Wolfe has worked as an administrative assistant in the Warren County Extension office for 10 years. She keeps an accurate accounting of the extension books, researches and orders office equipment, types newsletters, reports, etc., and she assists clients in getting their problems answered.

James Cowden is the county extension director of the Warren Cooperative Extension office, a position he has held for 15 years. He conducts programs in agriculture (agronomy, dairy, livestock), water quality, IPM and pesticides, home horticulture, Master Gardener, and 4-H youth work in animal and plant sciences.

Rynd also presented Doris Labowski of Sugar Grove with an award for her many years of volunteer service to the Pennsylvania Council of Cooperative Extension Associations. She served as state president from 1997-1999, state treasurer from 1995-1997, and northwest regional president from 1994-1995. She has also been actively involved in the American/Polish program the past several years, carrying the message of volunteerism to Poland and the Baltic states.

The annual meeting speakers were Dr. Bob and Ann Leffel of York County. The Leffels' are members of the Pennsylvania Chapter of the American Chestnut Foundation. They gave a brief history of the American chestnut, from its near demise to the present-day restoration program. The Leffels', along with other volunteers, are planting back crossed American Chestnut trees that have blight resistance. Their hope is to have American chestnut forests again for future generations to enjoy.

Penn State To Offer Computer Courses In Susquehanna County

MONTROSE (Susquehanna Co.)–As a result of a collaborative venture between Penn State Worthington Scranton in Dunmore and the Penn State Cooperative Extension of Susquehanna County, residents of Susquehanna and surrounding counties can take advantage of new educational opportunities.

During March and April, Penn State's Continuing Education Department will offer a selection of public computer courses utilizing labs at Mountain View, High School in Kingsley.

"We will begin by offering our Computer Basics Package, which includes courses in Windows, Word Level I, and Excel Level I," said Kim Vangarelli, Penn State Worthington Scranton area representative "Classes are scheduled from 6 p.m. to 9 p.m on Tuesdays and Thursdays and students can choose to take one course or all three."

Penn State has also planned a six-hour WebPage Design and Creation course that will be Saturdays, March 11 and 18, from 9 a.m. to noon

The Computer Basics Package, which includes three of the most commonly used computer applications, will be offered in sequence

Windows, which will be March 14, 16, 21, and 23, will introduce the basic concepts of window structure and movement, mouse maneuvering, and the Windows environment. The course will give an overview of Windows accessories including Windows Explorer, Wordpad, Paint, and Recycle Bin.

The Penn State Word Level I course will be held on March 28 and 30 and April 4 and 6. Participants will learn to create and save documents, open existing documents, and edit using both basic and sophisticated techniques The course will also include formatting, tables, page set-ups, and integrating files such as spreadsheets and graphics

In Excel Level I, scheduled for April 11, 13, 18 and 20, students will explore the advantages of electronic spreadsheets, create worksheets using Excel's built in functions, and learn shortcuts to moving and copying data. Instruction will also include changing the appearance of worksheet data, preparing documents for printing, and using the three-dimensional aspect of the Excel workbook environment by creating formulas that refer to cells on multiple worksheets.

The course in WebPage Design will provide an introduction to HTML (Hypertext Markup Language) for the Internet. Session I will include terminology and the basic structure of HTML code Session II will be devoted to creating webpages, with students designing and writing their own pages.

"Joann Kowalski, economic and community development agent with the cooperative extension, has been the catalyst in providing Penn State computer offerings in the Susquehanna County area," said Vangarelli "And Mt. View Principal Colin Furneaux and Instructional Technologist William DeWolfe were very helpful in providing state-of-the-art facilities for our programs."

Vangarelli said, "it is extremely gratifying to know that Penn State will not only be providing valuable training for individuals looking to enhance their computer skills, but will be serving some identified needs of the area business community as well."

For more information or to register for computer courses, call the Penn State Worthington Scranton Continuing Education Department at (570) 963-2600 or the cooperative extension office at (570) 278-1158.

USDA Seeks Nominators To Beef Board

WASHINGTON, DC–The USDA is accepting applications from organizations seeking to be certified to nominate individuals to the Cattlemen's Beef Promotion and Research Board. Applications are due by March 3. Organizations not previously certified may apply Organizations already certified need not reapply

The 110-member Cattlemen's Beef Promotion and Research Board was established by the Beef Promotion and Research Act of 1985 The board administers a coordinated program designed to expand foreign and domestic markets and uses for beef Membership is comprised of cattle producers and beef importers

Kathleen A Merrigan, AMS administrator, said, "AMS encourages all eligible women, minorities, and persons with disabilities to serve and participate in its committee and board activities It is USDA's policy that membership on industry-governed committees and boards, such as the Cattleman's Beef Promotion and Research Board, accurately reflect the diversity of individuals served by the programs"

Producer representation on the board is based on the number of cattle in each State Importer representation is based on volume of cattle, beef, and beef products imported States producing too few cattle to be represented alone are grouped into units for the purpose of allocating board positions .

Individual state and group vacancies occur this year in Arizona, California, Colorado, Iowa, Kansas, Louisiana, Michigan, Minnesota, Mississippi, Missouri, Nebraska, Nevada, New Mexico. North Carolina, Oklahoma, South Carolina, South Dakota, Tennessee, Texas, Utah, Wisconsin, Wyoming, Mid-Atlantic unit, Northeast unit, and the importer unit.

The national program is financed by a mandatory assessment of $1 per head on cattle sold in the United States and an equivalent amount on imported cattle, beef, and beef products.

Notice of the opportunity to request applications for certification will be published in the Feb. 2, 2000, Federal Register. Copies of the notice, certification applications, and additional information are available from Ralph L Tapp, Chief, Marketing Programs Branch, Room 2627-S, Livestock and Seed Program, AMS, USDA, STOP 0251, 1400 Independence Avenue, SW, Washington, D C 2025-0251, (202) 720-1115

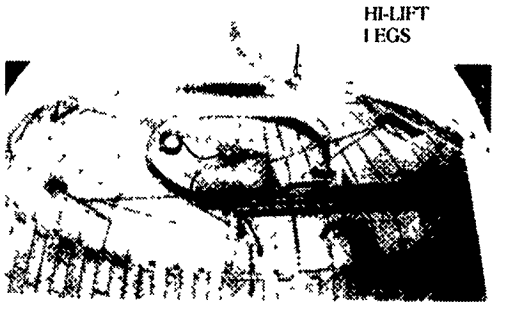
HI-LIFT LEGS



The new advance design Volumaxx unloader gives you the best of both worlds your choice of distribution. New HI-I IFT legs let you raise the unloader an extra 15' into the silo roof, so you can use a conventional side distributor Or, choose the Jamesway Powermaxx™ broad pan silage distributor With proper distribution, you'll have better quality feed, and you'll increase your silo's capacity up to 35% And we can prove it!

Bed your free stalls fast...

Dale Kennedy, Catalpa Farm, Middletown, PA

"The Millcreek Bedding Spreader saves me untold hours of back breaking manual labor installing fresh sawdust in my 125 stalls. Now I use less material and get a more controlled application. The Bedding Spreader is a good equipment value because I use it so often."

Now you can apply fresh wood shavings, sawdust or sand for free stall bedding 75% faster - with just one man. No more shovel, no more backache.

The Millcreek Bedding Spreader puts fresh bedding exactly where you want it. There's nothing like it for fast, efficient and cost-effective application of fresh bedding material in free stall barns.

For example, Scott Coblentz, Deer Spring Farm, Maryland, milks 280 head and uses sand to help improve herd health. It used to take 2 men almost 2 days to install fresh bedding. Now, with the Millcreek Bedding Spreader, one man does the job in hours.

New Products Now Available

 Benefits of Fiberglass Wheels ***

- Very Low Maintenance Costs
  Under normal use the only maintenance costs will be tightening or replacing the tire or rubber. No expensive parts to replace.
- High Performance Regardless of the Elements
  Wheels stay tight even in hot, dry conditions – No more loose rattling spokes – ever!
- Rugged Heavy Duty Design
  It takes a major accident or impact to break or twist these wheels.
- Hard Durable Surface
  Resists scuffs and scratches, paint job stays shinier
- Easier Cleaning
  Spokes have all rounded corners, no tight spots for dirt to get into

 Benefits of Fiberglass Springs ***

- Lightweight
  A fiberglass spring weighs 22 lbs. less than a steel spring. 44 lbs. less weight on the carriage.
- Durable One Piece Design
  No bolts to give out or wear.
- Better Performance on Heavy Loads
  The more weight, the better the ride, will not go flat and bottom out.
- Better Paint Adhesion
  Easier cleaning – no rust stains running out between the plys. Paint will not blister or peel off
- Stabilizer Kits – Now Available
  For a smoother ride and less bounce

Install these wheels and springs on your next new carriage or replace your old ones.

BARIDANA ORCHARDGRASS
Late maturing, very winter hardy.
Excellent rust resistance.
Baridana makes a nice dense sward without the typical Orchardgrass 'clumps.' The absence of clumps also makes Baridana a perfect Orchardgrass for pastures. Baridana has shown real high digestibility and protein figures on forage samples. If managed well, it can produce over 7 tons of DM per acre.

LEBANON (Lebanon Co.)–Winter Roundup of the Lebanon County 4-H Livestock Club was held recently at the fairgrounds in Lebanon. The roundup is held each year to help members market the animals not going to the Pennsylvania Farm Show. Each member may tag up to four market lambs or hogs, but can only show one of each. This show and sale enables members to put more than one on feed and still have a market for extras.

The Roundup included 14 lambs and 47 market hogs, all of good quality, as judged by Wendell Landis of Lancaster County.

Lehigh County 4-H Livestock Clubs Conduct 24th Annual Awards Banquet

ALLENTOWN (Lehigh Co.)–On Saturday evening, Jan 22, 250 individuals turned out at the Germansville Fire Company to show their support for the Lehigh County 4-H Livestock Clubs

The event was the 24th Annual Awards Banquet to recognize the achievements of members from the 4-H beef, swine, and sheep clubs

Club officers Adam Rabenold (Allentown), Elizabeth Wisser (New Tripoli), and John Strawbridge (Whitehall) conducted the welcome and opening ceremonies before the meal was served After the meal, Livestock Council President, Todd Bennecoff Sr, (Kutztown) opened the presentation of awards ceremony

Beef Club leaders Donna Rabenold (Allentown) and Joshua Grim (Breinigsville) presented the following awards to Adam Rabenold–champion market steer, senior showman, and senior fitter, Tim Rabenold (Allentown)–reserve champion market steer, intermediate showman, intermediate fitter, and senior market project book, Jacob Wisser (New Tripoli)–reserve heavyweight steer and junior market project book, Jacob Schantzenbach (Coopersburg)–reserve medium weight steer, best rate of gain, junior showman, and reserve junior fitter; Todd Lee Bennecoff Jr. (Kutztown)–lightweight champion steer and reserve junior showman; Joseph Schantzenbach (Coopersburg)–reserve lightweight steer and first year showman; Elizabeth Wisser–reserve senior showman and reserve senior fitter; Cyrus Gehringer (Kutztown)–junior fitter; Wyatt Gehringer (Kutztown)–first year fitter; Justine Bennecoff (Kutztown)–reserve first year fitter; and Laura Derr (Emmaus)–breeding project and Jami Willard.

The champion crossbred market hog was shown by Brandon Winebark, which went on to be grand champion, with Melissa Risser showing the reserve. Breed champions were shown by Melissa Risser, Durroc; Brandon Winebark, Hampshire; Trisha Berger, Landrace; and Michelle Risser, Yorkshire. Showmanship winners included Jason Shirk, Nathan Tice, and Kirk Artz.

Later at the sale, the champion lamb was purchased by Lebanon Valley Farmers Bank represented by Mike Firestine and Sean McKinney. The reserve was purchased by John F. Lengel, Inc, represented by Pete Lengel. The champion and reserve hogs were purchased by Hatfield.

Auctioneer Harry Bachman created some excitement when he sold the last animal of the 1999 sale, a hog shown by Angela Decker, and received a high bid of $290 from Lebanon Valley Farmers Bank, with Tice Farms as the contending bidder.

Animals are sold by the head, and lambs averaged $123 without the champions, while hogs averaged $157 including all hogs.

OPTIONS IN FEEDING
Your Dairy Herd
Call us today for a feeding program built to fit your Dairy Herd and your Production Goals.

For maximum performance and income over feed cost, rations should be balanced to provide the optimum levels of degradable and undegradable protein, nonstructural and structural (fiber) carbohydrate as well as minerals and vitamins. This allows for maximum utilization of the rumen microbes and total ration efficiency. Because you needs may be different from your neighbor's, we adjust the following nutrients and ingredients to fit your needs and goals.

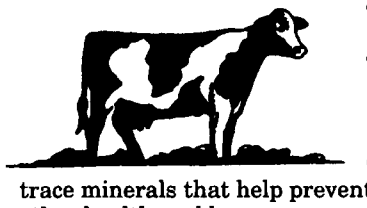
SWEETCAKE 16NU

FEED SUPPLEMENT BLOCKS FOR THE LIVESTOCK INDUSTRY

• High Natural Protein • No Urea • Fat Enhanced
• Balanced Supplementation • Safe For All Livestock Classes

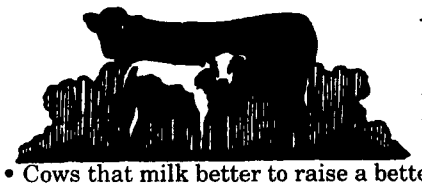
Sweetcake Advantages

- Aids in making the best use of your available forage
- Promotes a more even herd consumption, with 24-hour availability to all cattle
- Reduces labor to save you money and give you more time to make important management decisions
- Supplies much-needed vitamins and minerals that forage lacks to help your cattle perform to their genetic potential
- Supplies fat in most formulations to enhance energy intake



For Dairy

- Replacement heifers that grow out soundly and economically
- Body condition on dry cows so they can return to lactation, producing at the maximum potential
- Healthier herds, with essential trace minerals that help prevent metritis, retained placenta and other health problems
- Prompt re-breeding, thanks to essential nutrients



For Beef

- Stronger, healthier calves at birth
- Heavier Calves at weaning
- Cows that cycle better for improved conception rates
- Cows that milk better to raise a better calf

Miller Resolution Honors FFA

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.)–The House of Representatives recently approved a resolution introduced by Rep. Sheila Miller (R-129) designating Feb. 19-26 as "FFA Week" in Pennsylvania.

This year's theme, "FFA: The Signature of Success," illustrates how FFA's programs allow students the opportunity to apply classroom information to real-life situations.

"The FFA, which began as an organization known as the Future Farmers of America, has offered excellent career and leadership training to our young people studying agriculture and related sciences for more than 70 years," Miller said. "The state association has played–and will continue to play–a major role in our effort to maintain provide future generations of skilled agriculturalists who will make sure this industry remains a leader in Pennsylvania. They will continue to live up to their motto: 'Learning to do, doing to learn, earning to live, living to serve.'"

The state association of FFA was chartered in 1929 and now has approximately 8,000 members in 148 chapters. The nationwide membership of FFA is more than 450,000.

The national organization dates back to 1928 when, during the National Livestock Judging Contest, 33 students from 18 states joined together to establish the organization with the goal of providing leadership training for farm boys.

Girls were admitted to membership in FFA starting in 1969, and today they make up more than a quarter of the organization's membership.

The FFA mission is to make "a positive difference in the lives of students by developing their potential for premier leadership, personal growth and career success through agricultural education."

FFA has associations in all 50 states, as well as in Puerto Rico and the Virgin Islands.

Wins National FFA Speaking Contest

LOUISVILLE, Ky.–Elio Chiarelli Jr. of the HG Parkinson FFA chapter placed first in the National FFA Prepared Public Speaking Career Development Event (CDE) in Louisville during the 72nd National FFA Convention.

Chiarelli received $1,000 scholarship and $300 cash. He competed against 48 other participants with his speech, "Is Anything Safe To Eat?"

Event participants are required to deliver a prepared speech on one agricultural topic which may include agriscience and technology, agribusiness, agrimarketing, international relations, and agricultural communications. The speech must be 6-8 minutes in length.

At the conclusion of the speech, the judges may question the speaker for five minutes. Winners are selected on the written manuscript, speech delivery, content and responses to judges' questions.

Events are conducted in local chapters with winners advancing through district, area, and state competitions. National contestants advanced through preliminary and semifinal rounds with the top four speakers competing in the final national event.

The prepared public speaking event and scholarships are sponsored by the FMC Corporation Agricultural Products Group as a special project of the National FFA Foundation.

Elio is the son of Elio and Nancy Chiarelli of McDonald. Elio is a 1999 graduate of Fort Cherry High School, where he served as chapter president. Elio is president of the Pennsylvania FFA Association.

He participated in the prepared public speaking contest for three years, placing sixth in the 1997 state contest and third in the 1998 state contest. Elio placed first in the 1999 Pennsylvania prepared public speaking contest and qualified to represent Pennsylvania in the National FFA prepared public speaking contest.

Elio is the first Pennsylvania FFA member to win the national prepared public speaking contest. His public speaking coach was his chapter adviser, T. Lee Carter.

Pennsylvania FFA Members Attend

The Career Show, which represented businesses and industry, colleges and universities, ag products and services, and other diverse areas that support ag was conducted in a 770,000 square foot section of the convention hall. The career show added to a part of the total FFA experience.

The 1998-99 National FFA Officer Team hosted a reflection session and nine general sessions which all centered around the year's theme, "FFA The Signature of Success" During the sessions, members watched on as their fellow FFA members, advisers, and businesses were recognized, awarded, and honored for their hard work and dedication in the FFA.

Twenty-one Pennsylvania FFA members were honored by receiving the most prestigious degree offered in the FFA, the American Degree Penn- sylvania was represented this year in the area of career development events Elio Chiarelli Jr, Pennsylvania state president, was awarded first place in the national prepared public speaking event Melana Whit-tington of the Little Lions FFA Chapter of State College earned second place in the creed speak- ing contest. Kathryn Heeter of the West Snyder FFA Chapter in Beaver Springs was awarded 8th place in the extemporaneous public speaking contest.

Lindsay Spangler of the Mifflinburg FFA Chapter in Mifflinburg was awarded third place in the AgScience fair. Pennsylvania was honored this year to have three gold, nine silver, and one bronze team placings for events such as floriculture, forestry, and ag mechanics.

These career development events, among many others, were recognized during the general sessions. Also during sessions audiences were able to see dynamic performances by the National FFA band and chorus.

The diverse line of speakers who addressed audiences throughout the week included internationally renowned actor and superstar Danny Glover, Vietnam veteran and motivational speaker Dave Roever, humorist Emory Austin, and adventurer Jamie Clark The six national officers also gave their retiring addresses and received their retiring plaques.

During the ninth general session, members were able to view the installment of the brand new 1999-2000 national FFA officers.

The 1999-2000 Pennsylvania State FFA Officer Team served as nine of the 475 official national delegates. Delegates helped to decide many important issues for the future of the FFA. They also put forth many recommendations that will be used to enhance the FFA. The delegates were also involved in numerous workshops that will be helpful for the members of the Pennsylvania FFA.

During the convention, members were drawn to various forms of entertainment. The FFA Shopping Mall was open for all to buy souvenirs. Concerts by Ricochet, Sharee Austin, and Diamond Rio were attended by thousands. A local amusement park was opened for the enjoyment of all members who wished to attend.

Many tours of Louisville were made available for members. One highlight was visiting the Louisville Slugger baseball factory. Workshops were also available for members and advisers to attend. The convention center location allowed members to relax and enjoy the extensive lawns when they just needed to get away from all the people

Even though the national convention was moved for the first time in 72 years from Kansas City, Mo. to Louisville, Ky, it was a tremendous success. Next year Louisville will once again host the 73rd National FFA Convention.
